

The first of these is the Apis mellifera, the common honey bee. It is a very common bee in most parts of the world, and is the one most commonly kept in hives. It is a very social insect, and lives in colonies of thousands of individuals. The queen bee is the only female in the colony that is able to lay eggs. She is the only one that is able to fly, and she is the only one that is able to mate. The other females in the colony are workers, and they are responsible for all the other tasks of the colony, such as feeding the young, building the hive, and defending the colony from predators.
