

Fundamentals of statistics

8.1 Descriptive & inferential statistics

We need these because quantitative research is designed to generate numbers.

1. Descriptive statistics are the 1st stage in any quantitative analysis & concern the range of techniques that enable us to summarise our data (can be called summary statistics).

The most fundamental, important descriptive statistics are those concerned with identifying the central tendency (typical value like the average) of a set of numbers & how the remaining numbers are distributed (how much they vary) around this central/typical value.

2. Inferential statistics allows us to explore data so we can move beyond a simple description of individual variables by making inferences about the likelihood of our findings occurring.

We are concerned with identifying whether our findings (relationships/differences between one or more variables) are more likely to have occurred than by chance alone. What are the probabilities (likelihood) that the relationships/differences occurring between variables within our data set are significant & not the result of meaningless chance relationships that occur with all variables?

8.2 Measures of central tendency & dispersion

The arithmetic mean:

The most important measure of central tendency & the most familiar – shortened to the mean. It is the result of adding up all the numbers in a set & dividing by the total number of values.

$$\frac{(6 + 8 + 10 + 15 + 20 + 7)}{6} = \frac{66}{6} = 11 \text{ seconds}$$

The mathematical symbol used to represent the mean is $\bar{X}$ called the X bar. The formula for calculating the mean is as follows:

$$\bar{X} = \frac{\sum X}{N}$$

It simply says:

1. Add up all the values
2. Divide by the total number of values in the set of numbers (N means the total number of values & the $\sum$ means add up all the values, the $\sum x$ means add up the numbers in our set of numbers).

The Book of Answers Tanya Stivers, 2022 Imagine for a moment the only way to confirm a yes/no question was by saying Yeah How different would this make our communication Relying on a large corpus of naturally occurring recordings of spontaneous social interaction this book explores all of the ways that we confirm questions in our everyday social lives Tanya Stivers analyzes what these different ways of responding allow us to do that is unique to each answer type When do we answer with Yeah rather than He is for instance or when do we use more complicated forms of confirming This information provides us with the basic response possibility space From that point we can examine what the range of responses in particular answers tells us about what is important to us in managing social relationships through social interaction The book explains that we can conceptualize the response possibility space as having three dimensions alignment autonomy and affiliation Speakers rely on the details of their response to position themselves at a particular point in that three dimensional space sometimes accepting trade offs among the dimensions to achieve a stance that is higher in alignment and autonomy and lower in affiliation or higher in affiliation and autonomy but lower in alignment The Book of Answers uses real life conversations to find hidden patterns in how we do things together such as reach decisions tell stories or arrive at agreement or disagreement Delving into the science of how we talk this book investigates what those patterns tell us about human communication and our social lives
