Facts and Explanations in International Studies...and beyond Patrick Thaddeus Jackson, 2024-09-09 The politicizing of facts and factual claims has led some to abandon all talk of a meaningful distinction between a fact and a strongly held political commitment. This book argues that what we need instead are better accounts of facts and their relationship to explanation, ones that take seriously the dependence of facts on communities of practice and on consensus procedures of measurement but do not abandon the epistemic distinctiveness of facts. Bringing clarity and order to the discussion by disclosing both key commonalities and significant differences between the ways we talk about facts and explanations, Patrick Thaddeus Jackson argues that although intrinsically more contestable than facts, social scientific explanations can nonetheless be related to them in ways that allow researchers to evaluate explanations based on whether and to what extent they accord with the relevant facts in each situation. Ardent defender of a pragmatist account of knowledge that has no patience with either alternative facts or anything goes relativism, the author develops a set of concepts that enables tricky philosophical problems to be dissolved. After examining facts, causal explanations and interpretive explanations, the book culminates in an account of the priority of interpretation in the evaluation of any explanation and any seemingly factual claim. Defining the terms of the debate and grounding better conversations about the issues, this book will appeal to all scholars interested in the philosophy and methodology of the social sciences, international studies, international relations, security studies and anyone teaching or studying research methods.

introduction to the field Principals and Teachers Can't Do It All Charles A. Bonnici, 2020-12-15 Today the entire success of a school seems to be the responsibility of the principal and the teachers The thesis of this book is that principals and teachers can only take a school so far because of other factors that also impact on the success or failure of a school 1 Federal state local and district regulations and policies 2 the physical plant and location of the school 3 parents 4 students 5 the non teaching staff The book explores all these but also has an underlying theme Money It is a cliché that if a school has more money it will have better results Monies allocated to education do have an impact but poverty level and income inequality have an equal if not greater impact on school success on the national state and local levels Principals and teachers have absolutely no control on poverty and income inequality which negatively impact schools regardless of how dedicated and hard working the pedagogical staff After exploring the other factors impacting on school success the book will look at teachers and principals not from the viewpoint of what they can do but the viewpoint of their limitations Much of this is economic leading to high staff turnover and therefore a lack of continuity in a school The Home Front and Beyond Susan M.
