traditional sex stereotypes or other factors a committee assessed formal systems of job evaluation and other methods currently employed in the private and public sectors for establishing the comparability of jobs and their levels of compensation A review of sociological and economic literature shows that some differences in the characteristics of workers and in jobs do form a legitimate basis for wage differentials Nevertheless there exists a pervasiveness of occupational and job segregation by sex Given the current operation of the labor market and the existence of a variety of factors that permit the persistence of earning differentials between men and women e g labor market segmentation job segregation and employment practices it would seem that intentional and unintentional discriminatory elements enter into the determination of wages and are not likely to disappear Use of a job evaluation system is one possible remedy to this situation While the subjectivity of job
