The Architect's Guide to Running a Job Ronald Green,1982 The Architect's Guide to Running a Job Ronald Green,2001 Best practice is the concern of this book An architect has to be an administrator as well as designer and smooth economical administration will provide the conditions under which client relations can be constructive and good design can be achieved The book is divided into 76 short sections covering the entire process from preliminary enquiries to final fees each with a small flow chart showing who is involved and when This sixth revised edition updates the contents in line with present day practice bearing in mind the changes in terminology technology environmental demands and the legislative background Ronald Green and Professor Ross Jamieson who writes the foreword to this edition are both examiners for Part Three Architect's Guide to Running a Job Ronald Green,2012-06-14 Best practice is the concern of this book An architect has to be an administrator as well as designer and smooth economical administration will provide the conditions under which client relations can be constructive and good design can be achieved The book is divided into 76 short sections covering the entire process from preliminary enquiries to final fees each with a small flow chart showing who is involved and when This sixth revised edition updates the contents in line with present day practice bearing in mind the changes in terminology technology environmental demands and the legislative background Ronald Green and Professor Ross Jamieson who writes the foreword to this edition are both examiners for Part Three The Architect's Guide to Running a Practice David Littlefield,2012-05-31 This is your essential one stop shop for information on starting and running a practice Case studies and advice from practitioners big and small run alongside outlines of all the key topics to give you an insight into the problems and challenges others have faced when setting up a design business Accessible and informative this handbook is the ideal first point of reference when starting a practice Architects have many different reasons for setting up in practice equally there are many ways of running your own business This handbook helps you consider whether or not you should set up on your own examining issues such as financing office space recruitment IT and working out a business plan Some architects want to stay small while others have ambitions to grow into large businesses Some grow big accidentally And then there are those who pick and choose their work carefully and even turn down undesirable contracts while others will grab at everything possible This book would explore these different models and illustrate how different kinds of practice develop into successful businesses Importantly the book will stress that these issues are crucial you may be the best designer in the world but unless your business is well managed you will fail On the other hand some successful architects spend a lot of time looking for new work and attending to management issues rarely finding the time for design work This book would illustrate how architects have struck a balance between these two extremes The Architect's Guide to Running a Job. With a Foreword by Hugh Casson Ronald Green,1964 The Architect in Practice David Chappell,Andrew Willis,2013-02-05 The Architect in Practice was first published in 1952 Originally written by a quantity surveyor and an architect it has remained through its nine editions a leading textbook used in the education of architects world wide While the format of the book has developed the message and philosophy remains the same as the original to provide the student of architecture and the young practitioner with a readable guide to the profession outlining an architect s duties to client and contractor the key aspects of running a building contract and the essentials of management finance and drawing office procedure The tenth edition follows in that tradition The authors still an architect and a quantity surveyor have brought the text fully up to date Major revisions in this edition include Revised sections on Planning and the Building Regulations Changes to the education of architects in the UK have been detailed Discussion of the new ARB Architects Code Standards of Professional Conduct and Practice which came into force in January 2010 The commentary on the RIBA Standard Form for the Appointment of an Architect 1999 SFA 99 has been updated The latest RIBA Standard Agreement 2010 S 10 A is now discussed All references to JCT contracts have been updated to refer to the latest revisions of the 2005 suite of contracts Now also includes reference to education registration and CPD requirements of the Royal Institute of the Architects of Ireland The tenth edition of The Architect in Practice will continue to provide the guidance and advice all students and practising architects need in the course of their studies and in their profession

Architectural Design and Management in the Digital Age Bob Giddings, Silvio Melhado, Jennifer Barrett, 2024-10-28 Critical appraisal of architectural design and management in the digital age through international perspectives Architectural Design and Management in the Digital Age delivers an evaluation of digitalisation in the evolving processes of architecture providing a holistic treatment of the subject in terms of technologies human context emerging concepts and the management of digital projects This book includes analysis of the advantages of digital technology in appropriate circumstances but also to appreciate that alternative methods may continue to provide considerable benefits for other situations the implications of the digital world for creativity and architectural quality the diversity of people who could be involved and reaching the disadvantaged and disenfranchised the role of the architect and other professionals within design and management processes how emphasis on data management is creating diverging practices which involve new concepts and definitions that require interpretation especially with regard to experiences of design processes in different countries Providing fresh reflections on a myriad of timely topics Architectural Design and Management in the Digital Age international perspectives is an essential resource for researchers academics and advanced students in architecture design management and construction along with professionals in those disciplines

The Architect in Employment David Chappell, 1987 Constructing Professional Discourse Concepción

Orna-Montesinos, 2012-01-17 This book explores the fascinating role that language plays in the construction of non verbal objects by mapping out the ontological meaning of the specialised concepts and the domain specific knowledge embedded in them In doing so it provides a comprehensive linguistic insight into the discourse of professional domain specific communities and hence into the communication practices and procedures of those communities In this respect the book offers a response to the claims made by many of the most influential applied linguists today such as Vijay Bhatia 1993 2004 John Swales 1990 2004 or Ken Hyland 2002 among others who have consistently defended the need for applied linguistic research into the textual generic and social perspectives on the under researched interrelatedness of the discoursal and professional practices of a discipline Specifically this book provides readers with an integrative multi perspective approach to the study of professional domain specific discourses While it mainly draws on the tenets of genre theory and discourse semantics it also nurtures from the theoretical and empirical foundations of applied linguistics cognitive linguistics corpus linguistics and ontological engineering The book starts from the analysis of domain specific texts as final written products with specific lexico grammatical semantic and rhetorical features to later enquire into the written products as textual artefacts closely linked to the social context of production and interpretation of the text This integrative approach provides fresh new insights into the way the processes of writing are affected by the community specific institutional and socio historical circumstances in which domain specific texts are produced
