Magowan,2007-02-13 Beginning in the early 1980s readers advisory services were a widely discussed topic in North American public libraries By 2005 almost every public library in the United States and Canada offered some form of readers advisory service The services offered have changed significantly in ways perhaps disadvantageous to adult North American library patrons This book provides a critical history of readers advisory philosophy and offers a new perspective on the evolution of the service The book analyzes the debate that shaped readers advisory and discusses how the service has assumed its present form The study follows readers advisory through its three prominent stages of development beginning with the period 1870 to 1916 when the service was still a subject of much crucial debate about its meaning and purpose During the second phase 1917 to 1962 readers advisory systematically committed itself to meaningful adult education through serious and purposeful reading The book argues however that during the most recent phase of readers advisory from 1963 until the present contemporary public libraries have turned their backs on the rich heritage of readers advisory services by valorizing the reading of entertainment oriented and commodified genre titles and bestsellers Historical analysis case studies and statistical charts augment the book s central argument The American School ,1917 The Academy ,1905 The Academy and Literature ,1905 New-York Observer ,1907 The Farmers' Advocate and Home Magazine ,1916 The American Citizen ,1912 Catalog of Copyright Entries. Third Series Library of Congress. Copyright Office,1968 Modern American Extremism and Domestic Terrorism Barry J. Balleck,2018-06-01 Highlighting a breadth of American individuals and groups that engaged in extremist behavior across history this book provides a succinct concise overview of extremist behavior in the past and examines today's increasingly common incidences of hate and extremism. Since the election of Barack Obama in 2008, extremist and hate groups have seen a resurgence on the American political landscape. Members of these subgroups within the American population have become concerned that the America that they have always known is fading into oblivion, with a majority of individuals in these groups holding fiercely anti-immigration views and adhering to the belief that the United States should not admit large numbers of any group that is not white, Christian, or predominantly European. Others believe that the principles and precepts of the U.S. Constitution have gone by the wayside and that drastic measures are required to protect the underlying tenets that were the essential elements of the Constitution and many of their nation's founding principles. How did these individuals come to feel this way? Is it possible to bring these impassioned extremists back into the fold, and if so, how? This book provides comprehensive, illuminating, and sometimes disturbing insights into the individuals, groups, and events that have illustrated extremist behavior in post-World War II America. Ranging from the anti-communist rhetoric and activities of the John Birch Society to the radical socialist ideals of the Black Panthers to the goals of a pure America articulated by white nationalists, this book documents the various extremist elements that shaped the second half of the 20th century as well as the first two decades of the 21st century. Readers will grasp how events in the histories of individuals and groups, as well as perceived injustices, have led to the incidences of hate and extremism in American society. The encyclopedic entries of the book are specifically written to be accessible to readers without specific knowledge of extremism, political science, or sociology.

web a real valued function of n variables is a function $f: D \rightarrow \mathbb{R}$ where the domain D is a subset of $\mathbb{R}^n$ so for each $x = (x_1, x_2, \dots, x_n) \in D$ the value of f is a real number $f(x_1, x_2, \dots, x_n)$ for example the volume of a cylinder $V = \pi r^2 h$ is a function of two variables
