

WHO AM I?

REFLECTION PAPER

It has been more than a decade since I started knowing myself. Along my journey, I get to discover things about me – my talents and skills, my attitude, my strengths and weaknesses, and the likes. With this, it wouldn't be so much hard for me to talk about myself for my experiences helped me know myself better.

This journey of life has truly been a roller coaster ride. I conquered many challenges that God has given me. I easily get emotional whenever I can't handle my problems well. I burst into tears. Yes, real men cry. I have a soft heart which tends to be easily hurt and affected by things around me, which made me so much curious about other's perception about me. However, this soft heart also made me so much thoughtful to my friends. I usually get worried whenever I know someone who's carrying big problem(s) or is in the state of depression. Speaking of friends, I am not good at having colleagues. This is mainly because I am not good at starting conversations especially to strangers. I am shy but I do not consider myself as an introvert which is the other's misconception about me. Just like a roller coaster, there are also moments when I get up. I am jolly when I am with my close friends. I easily get attached to people close to me. I am different to strangers and to people close to me – so much different. I am also an achiever since my grade school years. As a consistent honor student, I get to manage and train myself in balancing everything with studies. Luckily, I am successful with sustaining my achievement 'til my SHS years. Through my years of studying, I get to engage with Math, which brought me to division and regional contests. Leadership has also been my thing in the past. Thus, making me involved into having position in the SSG (Supreme Student Government). I have some other skills and talents which I only discovered during my high school years, and I am thankful to God for giving me such that I treasure for a lifetime.

As the eldest and the unico hijo among the three siblings, my life has been full of pressure and expectations. It wasn't easy handling such situation along the way but I can say that I'm lucky with the family and relatives I have for they were always there whenever I face problems. This may be an emotional start for this reflection but I just want to take pride of how proud I am with my family. Growing up, I have seen how my parents quarrel for almost every year and maybe this makes me fearful whenever I see quarrels and fights. However, quarrels aren't my parents' thing for the past years. Looking on the brighter side, my family is a family of achievers and I'm proud of it. That's why I gain so much respect with the people around me, especially in my hometown in Manay, Davao Oriental.

We do have our own strengths and weaknesses. It is just normal for everyone, but it is upon us on how we handle these. For me, it is my strength to be time-conscious. When it is the deadline, I should finish it before the deadline. When it is call time, I should be there ahead of time. However, it may be ironic to say but I am fond of procrastinating. I don't do things ahead of time as long as I think of a free time to do it before the deadline comes. Thus, I end up cramming and this is one of my weakness. Being God-fearing is a strength of mine. No matter what problems or blessings that come my way, I never forget to converse with God and tell everything I want to tell Him. It is also a strength of mine that I can

The Course Reflection Project Nicole Schonemann, Emily Metzgar, Andrew Libby, 2015-05-01 Service learning is entering a post initiatory phase At tertiary institutions of all types and sizes service learning programs are common and service learning requirements for graduation are growing in popularity Taken together alongside continued faculty interest in effective teaching these factors have raised the visibility and popularity of service learning Now the greater need in service learning is not to prove the need for or efficacy of service learning but to turn the focus squarely back on practice Following established best practice is not enough instructors also need to reflect on how this fits within the specific context and application of each unique course and service learning partnership While there are many excellent resources that detail best practice and showcase exemplary service learning courses faculty reflection and course revision often goes unmentioned In response to the lack of attention on the role of reflection and course revision we convened groups of faculty from a variety of disciplines to reflect deeply on their courses paying specific attention to obstacles and challenges These conversations were converted to articles for this edited collection each chapter representing the process of reflection and revision and serving as a guide to develop effective practice in varied curricular contexts This text contributes to the body of literature on service learning in a unique and practical manner Faculty teaching or interested in teaching service learning classes would benefit from this text as well as university administrators and community service directors involved in service learning at a programmatic and institutional level This book should be marketed to faculty teaching disciplinary service learning classes and service learning pedagogy classes and administrative offices involved in service learning This could be a supplementary text for graduate level pedagogy courses Higher education institutional libraries would benefit from this text as well as the national and state campus compact offices

Curriculum Histories in Place, in Person, in Practice Petra Hendry, Molly Quinn, Roland Mitchell, Jacqueline Bach, 2023-03-10 This book situates the Curriculum Theory Project at Louisiana State University within a larger historical framework of curriculum work examining the practices which have sustained this type of curricular vitality over the lifetime of the field s existence Divided into seven parts the authors illuminate seven practices which have sustained the scholarship graduate programs mentorship and networking that have been critical to maintaining a web of international relationships This exploration and coming together of intergenerational stories reveals a more complete and nuanced narrative of the development of curriculum theory over the last 60 years Crucially the project exemplifies the continuing resilience of curriculum theory despite ongoing neo liberal aspirations to reframe education as a business Reflecting upon the lived experiences and articulated memories of those who have participated in the project and analysis of documents collected over its 25 year history it considers curriculum history ies writ large through and from this lens of practice As such it opens up fresh insights for cultivating the vitality and vigor of curriculum theory more broadly on an international scale and with a view to future directions for the field It will appeal to both new and experienced scholars working across education foundations urban education philosophy of education and higher education and researchers from across history sociology anthropology ethnic studies and gender studies The
