Matter: Substances and Mixtures

Many different types of matter exist around you. On your way to school, you might see metal, plastic, rocks, concrete, plants, fabric, water, and skin. You might notice that you can group some types of matter together into one category. For example, keys, coins, and paper clips are made of metal. Grouping matter into categories helps you understand how some things are similar to each other, but different from other things. Nearly all types of matter can be sorted into just two major categories—substances and mixtures.

What is a substance?

A substance is matter that is always made up of the same combination of atoms. There are two types of substances—elements and compounds. Recall that an element is matter made of only one type of atom, such as carbon (C), oxygen (O_2), and chlorine (Cl_2). A compound is matter made of atoms of two or more elements that are chemically bonded together. For example, water (H_2O) always contains two atoms of hydrogen bonded to one atom of oxygen. Table salt ($NaCl$) always contains one atom of sodium bonded to one atom of chlorine. The composition of elements and compounds doesn't change. Therefore, all elements and compounds are substances. 🔍

Key Concepts 🔑

- How do substances and mixtures differ?
- How do solutions compare and contrast with heterogeneous mixtures?
- In what three ways do compounds differ from mixtures?
