

Unit 2: American Revolution (1767-1781)

- To pay off the debt from the French and Indian War, the British decided to tax the colonists
 - Stamp Act - all paper products taxed (newspapers, books, stamps, diplomas)
 - Sugar Act - taxed sugar and molasses
 - Tea Act - taxed tea. Led to the Boston Tea Party where colonists dumped tea into the Boston harbor as an act of rebellion
 - Townshend Acts - taxed glass, iron, paint. Led to the Boston Massacre, fight between colonists and British soldiers. Five colonists were killed. Paul Revere stir it up
 - Quartering Act - required colonists to house and feed British soldiers
- Colonists felt these taxes were unfair because they had no one to represent them in the British Parliament (government): "Taxation without Representation"
- Decisions for Independence
 - Thomas Paine's Common Sense - pamphlet that encouraged colonists to break away from Britain and declare independence
 - Declaration of Independence - written by Thomas Jefferson, outlines reasons for independence: all humans have natural rights: "life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness," the government gets its power from the people: "consent of the governed"

Unit 3: The Constitution (1787-93)

- After the American Revolution, leaders of the new United States decided to set up a weak government because they feared a government that was too strong
 - Articles of Confederation = 1774 - 1781, no power to collect taxes, states had too much power (Shay's Rebellion highlighted weakness)
 - Northwest Ordinance of 1787: set rules for how new states would be added
- Constitution: convention meeting where new government was written = CONSTITUTION
 - Three branches of government: executive (enforce laws), legislative (make laws), judicial (review laws) = separation of powers, checks and balances
 - Elastic Clause: the Constitution is adaptable ("necessary and proper")
 - Federalists: strong powers that state government has and powers the federal government has
 - The Great Compromise: bicameral legislature (two houses in Congress) created. House of Representatives is proportional representation and Senate is equal representation
 - 3-Compromise: South and North disagreed over counting slaves towards population. Compromise was that 3 out of every 5 slaves would be counted
- Federalists vs. Anti-Federalists
 - Federalists: strong federal govt, supported ratification of Constitution, wrote Federalist Papers
 - Anti-Federalists: weak federal govt, strong state government, supported Bill of Rights, wrote the Anti-Federalist Papers

Discipline Problems Tadashi Dozono, 2024-05-07 Angel a Black tenth grader at a New York City public school self identifies as a nerd and likes to learn But she s troubled that her history classes leave out events like the genocide and dispossession of Indigenous people in the Americas presenting a sugar coated image of the United States that is at odds with her everyday experience The history I learned in school is simpler she says The world I live in is a lot more complex Angel like every student interviewed in Discipline Problems has been identified by teachers as a troublemaker a student whose behavior disrupts classroom norms and interferes with instruction But her critiques of the curriculum she s taught speak to her curiosity and insight crucial foundations for understanding history Like many students who have been marginalized by systemic racism in American schools she exposes the shortcomings of her classrooms academic environments by challenging both the content and the methods of her education All too often these challenges are framed as troublemaking and the students are disciplined for acting out instead of being rewarded for their intellectual engagement Tadashi Dozono a professor of education and former high school social studies teacher takes seriously the often overlooked critiques that students of color who get labeled as troublemakers direct toward their high school history curriculum He reinterprets troublemaking usually cast as a behavioral deficit as an intellectual asset and form of reasoning that challenges the disciplining reason of classrooms where whiteness is valued over the histories and knowledge of people of color Dozono shows how what are traditionally framed as discipline problems can be seen through a different lens as responses to educational practices that marginalize non white students Discipline Problems reveals how students of color seek out alternate avenues for understanding their world and imagines a pedagogy that champions the curiosity intellect and knowledge of marginalized learners Social Studies for Secondary Schools Alan J.

More Like Life Itself Cory Wright-Maley, 2018-10-01 John Dewey wrote in multiple places that education should be an experience of the content and processes of life itself Too often social studies is taught in a way that tells students about real life but fails to engage them in the process of life for which Dewey advocated The core purpose of simulations is to reflect the processes events and phenomena expressed in a variety of real life domains They engage students in these reflections of real life meaningfully as active agents who have the power to make decisions that impact the direction of events and that lead to both intended and unintended consequences Because of the nature of simulations students who participate in them are able to build their capacities to think in complex and critical ways Today despite the growing evidence that simulations have an important role to play in the teaching of social studies they remain an underutilized and undervalued approach to the discipline One of the key obstacles to their widespread adoption is the limited availability of training resources available to social studies teachers Teachers need support to develop a new vision of social studies teaching and learning coupled with practical guidance necessary to implement simulations effectively This volume provides teachers with both When teachers are able to weave simulations effectively into the fabric of social studies teaching and learning they help to promote social studies experiences that are both powerful and purposeful They offer students an experience of the discipline that is indeed More Like Life Itself
