

The Respiratory System

Your respiratory system brings

Problems with your respi

The Parts of the

The respiratory system is made up of

- Nose
- Pharynx (throat)
- Larynx (voice box)
- Trachea (windpipe)
- Bronchi (primary branching from trachea to smaller bronchioles)
- Alveoli

Right and Left Lungs

Our respiratory system has the main part where air enters the body. Internal (anterior) and external (posterior) views. The nasal cavity is made up of nasal septum, bone and hyaline cartilage. Nasal cavity. Nasal conchae. Meatuses: (1) Superior, middle and inferior. Defining region. Functions include: Air is warmed or cooled to match its temperature, moistened and filtered. Defining part of smell.

The Bronchial

- Right and left bronchus
- Right is more acute (in angle) and shorter in length, objects entering the right lung
- Left bronchus is lower and narrower
- It divides into:
 - Subsegmental bronchi
 - Tertiary bronchi
 - Segmental bronchi
 - Subsegmental bronchioles
- Alveoli: internal respiration takes place, by which acquired.

The Alveoli

Alveoli are small sacs where gas exchange takes place. They are located at the end of the bronchioles. They are surrounded by a network of capillaries. They are the site of internal respiration.

The Pleura

The pleura is a double-layered membrane that covers the lungs and lines the chest cavity. It contains a small amount of fluid that lubricates the lungs as they move during breathing.

A diagram showing the bronchioles.

The bronchioles which branch out from the trachea into the lungs.

The Mechanisms of Respiration
Inflation and deflation of the lungs ensures that regular exchange of gases takes place, however this is dependent on the arrangement of the pleura, the contraction and relaxation of the muscles of respiration and the elastic connective tissue.

Muscles of Respiration

- Diaphragm contracts, pulling the rib cage up and outwards
- External intercostal muscles contract, pulling the rib cage up and outwards
- Internal intercostal muscles contract, pulling the rib cage up and outwards
- External intercostal muscles contract, pulling the rib cage up and outwards
- Internal intercostal muscles contract, pulling the rib cage up and outwards

Respiratory Muscles

- External intercostal (12 pairs)
- Internal intercostal (12 pairs)
- Abdominal oblique (12 pairs)
- Rectus abdominus (12 pairs)

Respiratory Center

- Respiratory center (12-15 "12" and "15" are the number of pairs of nerves)
- Respiratory center (12-15 "12" and "15" are the number of pairs of nerves)

Inspiration - The muscles of respiration contract and utilize energy to do so, this is an active process as it uses energy. Inspiration last approximately 2 seconds.
- Simultaneous contraction of the external muscles pull the rib cage upwards and outwards.
- The diaphragm contracts when contracted, increasing the thoracic cavity.
- As the rib cage contracts, the pressure inside decreases, resulting in negative pressure, since the negative pressure is below atmospheric pressure, air is drawn in.
Expiration - A passive process, doesn't use energy.
- Relaxation of the external muscles allows the rib cage to move down and in and the relaxation of the diaphragm reduces the size of the thoracic cavity.
- As the rib cage relaxes, the pressure in the rib cage increases, resulting in positive pressure, since it is greater than atmospheric pressure, air is forced out.

Factors Affecting Respiration

- Compliance: Ease of stretching of the connective tissues in the lungs with increased breathing effort.
- Elasticity: Measure of the distensibility. High compliance, lung will expand easily. Low compliance, lung will not expand to its full capacity.
- Surface tension: Force that tends to pull the surface of the liquid into the smallest possible area.
- Viscosity: Measure of the resistance to flow.
- Resistance: Measure of the resistance to flow.

Lung Volumes

- Residual Volume: the volume of air that remains in the lungs after a maximal expiration.
- Tidal Volume: the volume of air that enters or leaves the lungs during normal breathing.
- Inspiratory Reserve Volume: the extra amount of air that can be inhaled into the lungs during maximal inspiration.
- Expiratory Reserve Volume: the extra amount of air that can be expired during maximal expiration.
- Vital Capacity: the maximum amount of air that can be expired during maximal expiration.
- Functional Residual Capacity: the volume of air that remains in the lungs after a normal expiration.
- Total Lung Capacity: the maximum amount of air that can be inhaled into the lungs during maximal inspiration.
- Residual Volume: the volume of air that remains in the lungs after a maximal expiration.
- Vital Capacity: the maximum amount of air that can be expired during maximal expiration.

Composition of Inspired and Expired Air

	Inspired Air	Expired Air
Oxygen	21%	16%
Carbon Dioxide	0.04%	4%
Water Vapor	Variable	Saturated

Respiratory Patterns

- Normal: normal, unaltered breathing.
- Apnea: no breathing.
- Hyperpnea: An abnormally rapid breathing rate of more than 20 breaths per minute.
- Hypopnea: An abnormally slow rate of breathing.

Study Guide In Respiratory Therapy Introduction

In today's digital age, the availability of Study Guide In Respiratory Therapy books and manuals for download has revolutionized the way we access information. Gone are the days of physically flipping through pages and carrying heavy textbooks or manuals. With just a few clicks, we can now access a wealth of knowledge from the comfort of our own homes or on the go. This article will explore the advantages of Study Guide In Respiratory Therapy books and manuals for download, along with some popular platforms that offer these resources. One of the significant advantages of Study Guide In Respiratory Therapy books and manuals for download is the cost-saving aspect. Traditional books and manuals can be costly, especially if you need to purchase several of them for educational or professional purposes. By accessing Study Guide In Respiratory Therapy versions, you eliminate the need to spend money on physical copies. This not only saves you money but also reduces the environmental impact associated with book production and transportation. Furthermore, Study Guide In Respiratory Therapy books and manuals for download are incredibly convenient. With just a computer or smartphone and an internet connection, you can access a vast library of resources on any subject imaginable. Whether you're a student looking for textbooks, a professional seeking industry-specific manuals, or someone interested in self-improvement, these digital resources provide an efficient and accessible means of acquiring knowledge. Moreover, PDF books and manuals offer a range of benefits compared to other digital formats. PDF files are designed to retain their formatting regardless of the device used to open them. This ensures that the content appears exactly as intended by the author, with no loss of formatting or missing graphics. Additionally, PDF files can be easily annotated, bookmarked, and searched for specific terms, making them highly practical for studying or referencing. When it comes to accessing Study Guide In Respiratory Therapy books and manuals, several platforms offer an extensive collection of resources. One such platform is Project Gutenberg, a nonprofit organization that provides over 60,000 free eBooks.
