Cheechako Sunrise, Sourdough

Sunset Don Langdok, Lanna Langdok, 2013-07-29 The Langdok's move to Anchorage Alaska in 1969 was a daring and gutsy decision on the part of this young Wisconsin couple with a two year old baby daughter It wasn't long before exciting and unexpected challenges started to shape and mold their character from finding a dead body dealing with airplane crashes and police department murders to homesteading in a log cabin with no electricity or water A second baby girl joined the family and together they enjoyed the summer camping and fishing surrounded in breathtaking scenery autumn horseback rides throughout the beautiful Chugach Mountains and winter snowmachining and skiing in a frosty cold landscape They learned to live off the land raising delicious vegetables under the midnight sun smoking fresh caught salmon for the larder and filling their freezer with moose and caribou It was a good and rewarding life Together with their children Don and Lanna established lifelong friendships while making Alaska their home This is their true story

The Art of Stereography

Douglas Heil,2017-02-02 Three dimensional stereoviews were wildly popular in the mid 19th century Yet public infatuation fueled highbrow scorn and even when they fell from favor critics retained their disdain Thus a dazzling body of photographic work has unjustly been buried This book explores how compelling images were made by carefully combining subject matter composition lighting tonality blocking and depth It draws upon the fine arts the mass media humanities history and even geology Throughout overlooked photographers are celebrated such as the one who found extraordinary visual parallels within nature anticipating Cezanne and Seurat or the one who refused to play favorites during a bitter war and found humanity on both sides or the one who took a favorite American glen and found menace all about Stereographers were actually more like film directors or television producers than large format photographers the best ones fused artistry with commercial appeal
