Fire Service Manual David Hanlon (MIFireE.), 2008 This Fire and Rescue Manual is the first manual within the Fire Service Operations series dedicated to the protection of the environment. This publication provides information and guidance designed to support firefighters, Fire Brigade Service managers and trainers in their work at operational incidents, training events and during day to day activities. This manual contains guidance for Fire and Rescue Services (FRSs) on preventing and, if necessary, dealing with incidents with the potential to pollute. Through its guidance, this manual also ensures FRSs can help minimise their own impact on the environment by providing advice on how to prevent pollution from their own premises. This new Fire and Rescue Service manual is essential reading for Fire and Rescue Service managers and those involved in incident response across all of the emergency services.

Town and Country Planning in the UK Simin Davoudi, David Webb, Geoff Vigar, John Pendlebury, Tim Townshend, Trevor Hart, Vincent Nadin, 2014-12-05 Town and country planning has never been more important to the UK nor more prominent in national debate. Planning generates great controversy, whether it's spending 80m and four years in inquiry into Heathrow's Terminal 5 or the 200 proposed wind turbines in the Shetland Isles. On a smaller scale, telecoms masts, take-aways, house extensions and even fences are often the cause of local conflict. Town and Country Planning in the UK has been extensively revised by a new author group. This 15th Edition incorporates the major changes to planning introduced by the coalition government elected in 2010, particularly through the National Planning Policy Framework and associated practice guidance and the Localism Act. It provides a critical discussion of the systems of planning, the procedures for managing development and land use change, and the mechanisms for implementing policy and proposals. It reviews current policy for sustainable development and the associated economic, social and environmental themes relevant to planning in both urban and rural contexts. Contemporary arrangements are explained with reference to their historical development, the influence of the European Union, the roles of central and local government, and developing social and economic demands for land use change. Detailed consideration is given to the nature of planning and its historical evolution, the role of the EU, central, regional and local government mechanisms for developing policy and managing these changes, policies for guiding and delivering housing and economic development, sustainable development principles for planning, including pollution control, the importance of design in planning, conserving the heritage, community engagement in planning. The many recent changes to the system are explained in detail: the new national planning policy framework, the impact of the loss of the regional tier in planning and of the insertion of neighbourhood level planning, the transition from development control to development management, the continued and growing importance of environmental matters in planning, community engagement, partnership working, changes to planning gain and the introduction of the Community

Svengalis,Rhode Island LawPress,2008 New Hampshire Register, State Yearbook and Legislative Manual ,2014 The Quest for Environmental Regulatory Integration in the European Union Eberhard Bohne,2006-01-01 It is a commonplace that pollution knows no borders and that environmental law must allow for cross border implementation The European Union specifies this principle in EC directives on integrated pollution prevention and control IPPC on environmental impact assessment EIA and on the control of major accident hazards involving dangerous substances Seveso II This is the first book to investigate from both empirical and normative perspectives the effectiveness of these directives at the national level. It provides by far the most extensive comparative analysis and evaluation of the industrial permitting and inspections EIA and major accident prevention in the EU. Offering an in depth study of the transposition and implementation of EC environmental directives in eight EU member states: Denmark, France, Germany, Italy, the Netherlands, Spain, Sweden, and the United Kingdom, the author who has played a significant role in the formulation of environmental legislation and regulation at both the national German and EU levels, and provides a stable base for an assessment of the benefits and costs of the integrated approach to environmental protection. Among the factors considered are the following key features of national constitutional administrative and judicial systems which provide the framework for environmental regulations and their implementation in the eight countries: under study procedures and substantive requirements transposing the IPPC, EIA and Seveso II directives into national laws and evaluation of national deficiencies and the extent of muddling through. The empirical part of Dr Bohne's analysis draws on 138 expert interviews with public and private actors, a survey of 178 public authorities and document analyses of selected industrial permits and environmental impact statements. His comparative analysis of procedural, organizational and substantive integration makes it possible to identify and compare national accomplishments in regulatory integration and offers new insights into the effectiveness and limits of EC law. The study concludes with a discussion of the implications of the findings for European governance and better regulation after the enlargement of the EU. This thoroughly researched, rigorous and insightful study will be of great interest and value to policymakers, regulators, business people, environmental NGOs, consultants and lawyers, as well as to students of environmental policies and European governance.

The Making of an African Working Class Pnina Werbner, 2014-07-20. It is now 50 years since E. P. Thompson published his classic The Making of the English Working Class. The Making of an African Working Class follows Thompson in exploring the formation of working class identity among low paid African workers. In arguing for a radical public anthropology of worker identity, the book seeks to analyse the cultural, legal, ideological and experiential dimensions of labour activism often neglected in other labour studies. Pnina Werbner shows that by fusing cosmopolitan and local popular cultural forms of protest, unionists have created a distinctive vernacular way of being a worker in Botswana, one that does not deny workers roots at home or in the countryside while being cognisant of a wider world of cosmopolitan labour rights. The assertion of working class dignity, honour and respect, Pnina argues, is a powerful motivating force for manual workers. Against legal sceptical approaches, The Making of an African Working Class argues that in challenging the government, their employer in court, manual workers' protests and mobilisation are deeply embedded in ethics, social justice and the law.
