Snow Fall Report Ri 2008:

Antarctic Sea Ice Variability in the Southern Ocean-Climate System National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine, Division on Earth and Life Studies, Ocean Studies Board, Polar Research Board, 2017-03-24 The sea ice surrounding Antarctica has increased in extent and concentration from the late 1970s when satellite based measurements began until 2015 Although this increasing trend is modest it is surprising given the overall warming of the global climate and the region Indeed climate models which incorporate our best understanding of the processes affecting the region generally simulate a decrease in sea ice Moreover sea ice in the Arctic has exhibited pronounced declines over the same period consistent with global climate model simulations For these reasons the behavior of Antarctic sea ice has presented a conundrum for global climate change science The National Academies of Sciences Engineering and Medicine held a workshop in January 2016 to bring together scientists with different sets of expertise and perspectives to further explore potential mechanisms driving the evolution of recent Antarctic sea ice variability and to discuss ways to advance understanding of Antarctic sea ice and its relationship to the broader ocean climate system This publication summarizes the presentations and discussions from the workshop Report of Cases Determined in the Supreme Court and Court of Appeals of the State of New Mexico New Mexico.
