

SAT TIPS

In your essay,

consider the opposing point of view.
Acknowledge that it exists, then provide reasons why your thesis is more superior.

When reading the passage, find and underline sentences or phrases that provide evidence of the author's argument.

Quoting specific evidence in your essay will help reinforce your analysis.

If uncertain of your answer, circle the question number.

This way, you can easily get back to it if you have time at the end.

When stuck on a Math question, write something (anything!) down. Label diagrams, expand/factor equations, plug numbers in.

This might help you recall formulae or techniques to solve the question!
