

Spontaneous Activity

- In a Montessori school, the ability for a child to move from one activity to another at will is a basic display of spontaneous activity. With the ability to choose freely between a range of activities at their disposal, a child may move freely or spontaneously from one to another of their own volition.
- In a traditional school, spontaneous activity is not a common method engaging in a set of activities. Typically a teacher will direct the children in their completion and movement from one activity to another without consideration of the child's learning experience.

Spontaneous Activity In Education:

Spontaneous Activity In Education Maria Montessori, 2023-04-30 Spontaneous Activity in Education is a book written by Maria Montessori the founder of the Montessori method of education.
