Higher Education Accreditation Paul L. Gaston,2023-07-03 Is the accreditation system broken as claimed by successive Secretaries of Education and some recent reports This book addresses this question head on asking whether accreditation is indeed in need of radical reform and whether the agencies authority should be curtailed or whether in fact the changes now underway that accrediting agencies contend ensure rigorous and consistent standards and degrees that are a reliable gauge of student attainment are moving the academy and the nation in the right direction In a sweeping and ambitious book Paul Gaston deploys his knowledge and experience as a peer reviewer for three regional accrediting agencies a former board member and chair of the Association of Specialized and Professional Accreditors and his involvement in the early stages of the Council for Higher Education Accreditation to go beyond the polemics to explore whether a strategy that builds on the emerging values and good practices can achieve the substantive and positive improvements the public is demanding As an introduction for readers new to the debate he provides a brief overview of the development of accreditation its terminology and structure describing how it currently works and what it has achieved and offers insight into the proliferation of the missions of accreditation as well as the multiplicity of stakeholders with an interest in its outcomes to question whether the mandate of accreditation should as some contend be expanded or particular missions reassigned or abandoned This established he undertakes a dispassionate analysis of the arguments and recommendations of critics and supporters of the current direction of accreditation to identify common ground and explore constructive ways forward paying specific attention to current and potential reforms of the three sectors of higher education accreditation the seven regional accrediting associations the national accreditors and programmatic or specialized accreditation The book concludes by outlining a comprehensive approach to reform His proposal would preserve practices that already work well

Genetic Resources as Natural Information Manuel Ruiz Muller, 2015-09-16

Demonstrating the shortcomings of current policy and legal approaches to access and benefit sharing ABS in the Convention on Biological Diversity CBD this book recognizes that genetic resources are widely distributed across countries and that bilateral contracts undermine fairness and equity The book offers a practical and feasible regulatory alternative to ensure the goal of fairness and equity is effectively and efficiently met Through a legal analysis that also incorporates historic economic and sociological perspectives the book argues that genetic resources are not tangible resources but information It shows that the existing preference for bilateralism and contracts reflects resistance on the part of many of the stakeholders involved in the CBD process to recognize them as such ABS issues respond very well to the economics of information yet as the author explains these have been either sidelined or overlooked At a time when the Nagoya Protocol on ABS has renewed interest in feasible policy options the author provides a constructive and provocative critique The institutional policy and regulatory framework constitute bounded openness under which fairness and equity emerge Nursing Informatics for the
