Watchmen as Literature Sara J. Van Ness, 2014-11-29 Watchmen has been hailed as the quintessential graphic novel and has spawned a body of literary criticism since its 1986 initial appearance in installments This work explores the graphic novel's reception in both popular and scholarly arenas and how the conceptual relationship between images and words affects the reading experience Other topics include heroism as a stereotype the hero's journey the role of the narrator and the way in which the graphic layout manipulates the reader's perception of time and space Instructors considering this book for use in a course may request an examination copy here

Speculative Film and Moving Images by or about Black Women and Girls Karima K. Jeffrey-Legette, 2023-01-24 Speculative Film and Moving Images by or about Black Women and Girls Watch It examines depictions of African descended women and girls in twentieth and twenty first century filmmaking Topics include a discursive analysis of stereotypes roles garnered by Halle Berry the only Black woman to receive an Oscar for Best Actress in a Leading Role the promise of characters relationships and scripts found in works ranging from Altered Carbon Lovecraft Country and HBO's Watchmen series and a closing chapter that considers the legacy of Black women in horror Jeffrey Legette illustrates the ways in which recent texts explore the trauma endured by people of African descent in the United States of America in evocative ways In doing so she provides a compelling interpretation of prevalent well received and recurring images of Black women and girls in American popular culture

Intermediality and Storytelling Marina Grishakova, Marie-Laure Ryan, 2010 The narrative turn in the humanities which expanded the study of narrative to various disciplines has found a correlate in the medial turn in narratology Long restricted to language based literary fiction narratology has found new life in the recognition that storytelling can take place in a variety of media and often combines signs belonging to different semiotic categories visual auditory linguistic and perhaps even tactile The essays gathered in this volume apply the newly gained awareness of the expressive power of media to particular texts demonstrating the productivity of a medium aware analysis Through the examination of a wide variety of different media ranging from widely studied such as literature and film to new neglected or non standard ones such as graphic novels photography television musicals computer games and advertising they address some of the most fundamental questions raised by the medial turn in narratology how can narrative meaning be created in media other than language how do different types of signs collaborate with each other in so called multi modal works and what new forms of narrativity are made possible by the emergence of digital media
