"O"-Level Shona Grammar ,1970 The Art of Mbira Paul F. Berliner,2020-01-31 Growing out of the collaborative research of an American ethnomusicologist and Zimbabwean musician Paul F Berliner's The Art of Mbira documents the repertory for a keyboard instrument known generally as mbira. At the heart of this work lies the analysis of the improvisatory processes that propel mbira music's magnificent creativity. In this book, Berliner provides insight into the communities of study, performance, and worship that surround mbira. He chronicles how master player Cosmas Magaya and his associates have developed their repertory and practices over more than four decades, shaped by musical interaction, social and political dynamics in Zimbabwe, and the global economy of the music industry. At once a detailed exposition of the music's forms and practices, it is also an indispensable historical and cultural guide to mbira in a changing world. Together with Berliner and Magaya's compendium of mbira compositions, Mbira's Restless Dance: The Art of Mbira breaks new ground in the depth and specificity of its exploration of an African musical tradition and in the entwining of the authors' collaborative voices. It is a testament to the powerful relationship between music and social life and the rewards of lifelong musical study, performance, and friendship.

It is both theoretical and practical, highlighting the importance of multi-dimensional and non-evaluative analytical frameworks and providing information for second language teachers and learners.

Tradition, Archaeological Heritage Protection and Communities in the Limpopo Province of South Africa Innocent Pikirayi,2011 This book captures community voices in matters relating to their relationship with specific archaeological heritage sites and landscapes in the Limpopo Province of South Africa Focusing on the stonewalled archaeological heritage associated with Venda speakers and the reburial in 2008 of human remains excavated by the University of Pretoria from the cultural landscape of Mapungubwe the book attempts to establish why archaeology and cultural heritage conservation struggle for relevance in South Africa today In articulating the relevance of archaeology in South Africa in particular and southern Africa in general and in the context of public or community based archaeology the book explores how communities and the public interact use and negotiate with their pasts The research critiques the notion of archaeological heritage conservation and attempts to understand cultural heritage conservation from the perspectives of descendant communities The book further exposes the conflict between cultural heritage protection efforts and modern development and questions the role of such efforts given the challenges of unemployment social inequality and poverty in democratic South Africa The book is also about community engagement in archaeology specifically in matters relating to access to cultural heritage resources This study suggests that there is scope for community archaeology to take centre stage and drive future directions in archaeology if archaeologists change their approach in dealing with communities Researchers are challenged in this study to rethink the notion of heritage to debate the objectives behind cultural heritage conservation and to critically reexamine the relevance of archaeology today This study suggests that the conflicting positions between heritage managers archaeologists and descendant communities may be resolved through sharing of tradition with the present
