Marine Ecosystem Assessment for the Southern Ocean: Meeting the Challenge for Conserving Earth Ecosystems in the Long Term Monica M. C. Muelbert, 2024-12-24 National and international agencies need assessments of change in ecosystems and their drivers in order to sustain natural systems to maintain the delivery of services and to meet the challenge for conserving Earth ecosystems in the long term In marine systems change may arise directly from human activities e g fisheries indirectly from local or global activities cascading effects through food webs from fisheries or changing environments from climate change and or ocean acidification or from naturally varying processes A particular challenge for managers is to identify how dangerous future climate change will be for ecosystems and their services and whether mitigation or adaptation may be needed in advance in order to achieve the conservation requirements For regions of international attention particularly those that have the attention of many management or policy oriented bodies a standardized process is needed to harmonize the scientific information on the status and trends in ecosystems used by the different bodies That process also needs to ensure the information is available in a timely manner For example assessments of change in habitats species and or food webs in the Southern Ocean are currently compiled separately for at least ten different international organizations or processes A Marine Ecosystem Assessment for the Southern Ocean MEASO aims to harmonize that information for policy makers This assessment began with an international conference in April 2018 <http://www.measo2018.aq> where it was agreed to undertake the first MEASO over 2018 2019 with the view to provide the outcomes to relevant bodies such as the Scientific Committee for the Conservation of Antarctic Marine Living Resources soon after

Faith, Identity and Homicide Shona Robinson-Edwards, 2021-10-09 This book explores the role that religion plays in the lives of imprisoned homicide offenders

Drawing on interviews in an English prison the author examines how they narrate their life stories and how religion intersects with other categories to rebuild their personal identities after committing a crime and being labelled as murderers or killers This book seeks to bridge the gap between macro and micro phenomena examining religion as both a social institution and a personal experience It also explores the mediating role of institutions with regards to the nature and extent of their influence upon individual choices and actions and provides insights into the nature of the therapeutic prison It seeks to create some clarity of understanding the complex nature of religiosity narrative identity desistance and rehabilitation whilst critically examining elements of social identity that may restrict or enhance this process It provides a series of recommendations for organisations working with convicted homicide offenders offenders and speaks to academics and practitioners in the fields of criminology sociology psychology and religious theological studies The Work of the British Law Commissions Shona Wilson Stark, 2017-07-13 The Law Commission of England and Wales and the Scottish Law Commission were both established in 1965 to promote the reform of the laws of their respective jurisdictions Since then they have each produced hundreds of reports across many areas of law They are independent of government yet rely on governmental funding and governmental approval of their proposed projects They also rely on both government and Parliament and occasionally the courts or other bodies to implement their proposals This book examines the tension between independence and implementation and recommends how a balance can best be struck It proposes how the Commissions should choose their projects given that their duties outweigh their resources and how we should assess the success or otherwise of their output Countries around the world have created law reform bodies in the Commissions image They may wish to reflect on the GB Commissions responses to the changes and challenges they have faced to reappraise their own law reform machinery Equally the GB Commissions may seek inspiration from other commissions experiences The world the GB Commissions inhabit now is very different from when they were established They have evolved to remain relevant in the face of devolution the UK s changing relationship with the European Union increasing pressure for accountability and decreasing funding Further changes to secure the future of independent law reform are advanced in this book Volcanic Ash Shona Mackie, Katharine Cashman, Hugo Ricketts, Alison Rust, Matt Watson, 2016-05-24 Volcanic Ash Hazard Observation presents an introduction followed by four sections each on a separate topic and each containing chapters from an internationally renowned pool of authors The introduction provides a volcanological context for ash generation that sets the stage for the development and interpretation of techniques presented in subsequent sections The book begins with an examination of the methods to characterize ash deposits on the ground as ash deposits on the ground have generally experienced some atmospheric transport This section will also cover basic information on ash morphology density and refractive index all parameters required to understand and analyze assumptions made for both in situ measurements and remote sensing ash inversion techniques Sections two three and four focus on methods for observing volcanic ash in the atmosphere using ground based airborne and spaceborne instruments respectively Throughout the book the editors showcase not only the interdisciplinary nature of the volcanic ash problem but also the challenges and rewards of interdisciplinary endeavors Additionally by bringing together a broad perspective on volcanic ash studies the book not only ties together ground air academic and applied approaches to the volcanic ash problem but also engages with other scientific communities interested in particulate transport Includes recent case studies highlighting the impact of volcanic ash making methods used for observation more accessible to the reader Contains advances in volcanic ash observation that can be used in other remote sensing applications Presents a cross disciplinary approach that includes not only methods of tracking and measuring ash in the atmosphere but also of the fundamental science that supports methodological application and interpretation Edited by an internationally recognized team with a range of expertise within the field of volcanic ash

Investigating Operational Incidents in a Military Context David W. Lovell, 2014-11-27 Operational incidents denotes misconduct misdeeds or mishaps that occur on military operations whether concerning the mistreatment of enemy soldiers offences against civilians conflict of varying levels within one's own forces or accidents that lead to injury or death within a theatre of operations Alleged breaches of IHL or the disciplinary regulations of particular militaries require at the very least an initial assessment to determine the facts and then if warranted a more substantial investigation The need for robust investigations however is not always matched by the will and the ability to undertake them There is at last a sufficient body of experience on which we can reflect in this volume on such investigations their challenges and their likely evolution

The Paraguayan Harp Alfredo Colman, 2015-01-22 How did a music instrument transplanted to South America by colonial Jesuit missionaries earn the official designation as Paraguay's cultural national symbol This ethnomusicological and organological study of the Paraguayan diatonic harp in the twentieth century tells its story as an emblematic national musical instrument First used liturgically by Jesuit missions in colonial times the transplanted European diatonic harp was transformed and adopted into the folk music vocabulary of Paraguay and the Rio de la Plata region Following the commercial success of Paraguayan harpist Félix Pérez Cardozo in the 1930s in Argentina the instrument's symbolic value as an icon of social cultural and national identity was articulated in local traditions such as popular folk music festivals It received designation of arpa paraguaya Paraguayan harp and in 2010 official recognition as símbolo de la cultura nacional cultural national symbol The author's fieldwork in Paraguay and continuous contact with composers educators festival organizers harp performers researchers and festival organizers have provided unique insights into the development of the Paraguayan harp tradition as a cultural icon of the nation

Necroclimatism in a Spectral World (Dis)order? Nhemachena, Artwell, Mawere, Munyaradzi, 2019-06-25 Highlighting the problematiqués of working with a narrow version of greenhouse effects or global warming this book posits the theory of necroclimatism that encompasses broader versions of greenhouse effects and global warming Conceiving cultures societies moral sensibilities epistemologies politics economies legal systems and religions of the formerly colonised peoples as greenhoused and entrapped in the heat of global apartheid and neo colonialism the book refuses to be confined to the pufferies of physical conceptualisations of greenhousing and global warming Underlining the supposed disposability and dispensability of colonised peoples the notion of necroclimatism explicates ways in which some people suffer various forms of death which have increasingly become a feature of global apartheid and neo colonialism that are cast in spectral sacrificial logics Deemed to constitute disposable bodies disposable cultures disposable politics disposable societies disposable epistemologies disposable religions disposable laws and disposable economies the sacrificed are in the age of climate catastrophism once again reminded that they have duties to die to become extinct in order to save the global spaceship that is sinking due to climate change and global warming This book therefore argues that in a sacrificial world dis order binaries between humans and animals good and evil moral and immoral the dead and the living necessarily vanish in the nefarious logic of what marks the era of climate catastrophism and the attendant necroclimatism The book further argues that a sacrificial world dis order is necessarily a posthumanist and postanthropocentric world dis order which should be never granted space in African worlds and even beyond The book thus raises fundamental questions for African anticipatory regimes and for this reason it is handy for scholars in political science sociology social anthropology development studies environmental studies agricultural studies legal studies food science geography religious studies and decolonial fields of studies
