Writing Black Beauty Celia Brayfield, 2023-10-03 The story of a remarkable woman who wrote a novel that not only became a classic but also changed the way human society views and treats animals Born in 1829 to a young Quaker couple Anna Sewell grew up in poverty in London She was fourteen when she fell and injured her ankle which left her permanently disabled Rejecting the life of a Victorian invalid she developed an extraordinary empathy with horses learning to ride side saddle and to drive a small carriage Rebellious and independent minded Anna suffered periods of severe depression as a young woman She left the Quaker movement but remained close friends with the women writers and abolitionists who had been empowered by its liberal principles It was not until she became terminally ill aged 51 that she found the courage to write her own book Tragically she died just five months after the book was published in 1877 Black Beauty is now recognised as the first anthropomorphic novel and it had an extraordinary emotional impact on readers of all ages After modest success in Britain it was taken up by a charismatic American George Thorndike Angell a campaigner against animal cruelty who made it one of the bestselling novels of all time Using newly discovered archive material Celia Brayfield shows Anna Sewell developing the extraordinary resilience to overcome her disability rouse the conscience of Victorian Britain and make her mark upon the world

Style and Status Susannah Walker, 2007-02-23 Between the 1920s and the 1970s American economic culture began to emphasize the value of consumption over production At the same time the rise of new mass media such as radio and television facilitated the advertising and sales of consumer goods on an unprecedented scale In Style and Status Selling Beauty to African American Women 1920-1975 Susannah Walker analyzes an often overlooked facet of twentieth century consumer society as she explores the political social and racial implications of the business devoted to producing and marketing beauty products for African American women Walker examines African American beauty culture as a significant component of twentieth century consumerism and she links both subjects to the complex racial politics of the era The efforts of black entrepreneurs to participate in the American economy and to achieve self determination of black beauty standards often caused conflict within the African American community Additionally a prevalence of white owned firms in the African American beauty industry sparked widespread resentment even among advocates of full integration in other areas of the American economy and culture Concerned African Americans argued that whites had too much influence over black beauty culture and were invading the market complicating matters of physical appearance with questions of race and power Based on a wide variety of documentary and archival evidence Walker concludes that African American beauty standards were shaped within black society as much as they were formed in reaction to let alone imposed by the majority culture Style and Status challenges the notion that the civil rights and black power movements of the 1950s through the 1970s represents the first period in which African Americans wielded considerable influence over standards of appearance and beauty Walker explores how beauty culture affected black women's racial and feminine identities the role of black owned businesses in African American communities differences between black owned and white owned manufacturers of beauty products and the concept of racial progress in the post World War II era Through the story of the development of black beauty culture Walker examines the interplay of race class and gender in twentieth century America

Black Church Studies Stacey M. Floyd-Thomas, 2007 Religious Studies Over the last thirty years African American voices and perspectives have become essential to the study of the various theological disciplines Writing out of their particular position in the North American context African American thinkers have contributed significantly to biblical studies theology church history ethics sociology of religion homiletics pastoral care and a number of other fields Frequently the work of these African American scholars is brought together in the seminary curriculum under the rubric of the black church studies class Drawing on these several disciplines the black church studies class seeks to give an account of the broad meaning of Christian faith in the African American experience Up to now however there has not been a single comprehensive textbook designed to meet the needs of students and instructors in these classes Black Church Studies An Introduction will meet that need Drawing on the work of specialists in several fields it introduces all of the core theological disciplines from an African American standpoint from African American biblical interpretation to womanist theology and ethics to sociological understandings of the life of African American churches It will become an indispensable resource for all those preparing to serve in African American congregations or to understand African American contributions to the study of Christian faith Looks at the diverse definitions and functions of the Black Church as well as the ways in which race class religion and gender inform its evolution Provides a comprehensive view of the contributions of African American Scholarship to the current theological discussion Written by scholars with broad expertise in a number of subject areas and disciplines Will enable the reader to relate the work of African American theological scholars to the tasks of preaching teaching and leading in local congregations Will provide the reader the most comprehensive understanding of African American theological scholarship available in one volume Stacey Floyd Thomas Brite Divinity School Juan Floyd Thomas Texas Christian University Carol B Duncan Wilfrid Laurier University Stephen G Ray Jr Lutheran Theological Seminary Philadelphia Nancy Lynne Westfield Drew University Theology Theology and Doctrine Contemporary Theology Catalogue and Course of Study for the High School and Grades Hastings (Mich.).
