The Flowering of a Tradition Elizabeth Tebeaux, 2016-12-05 The Flowering of a Tradition which describes the development of technical or practical writing in England during the seventeenth century from 1641 to 1700 follows Emergence of a Tradition which tracks the emergence of English technical writing from 1475 to 1640 during the English Renaissance Together the books present the emergence and development of technical writing in England from 1475 to 1700 by describing and exemplifying the main characteristics and genres of technical writing as they appeared and flowered Topics include format and page design recognition of readers needs in content and presentation plain style technical description technical writing s contribution to the development of the paragraph text and the use of technology in technical writing the history of instructions and the emergence and development of proposals and reports The two books cover the major topics that continue to form the foundation of the teaching and practice of technical writing and help define the history of practical discourse during approximately 300 years of English history The history of technical or practical writing has not yet been written and these two books fill a major deficiency in the history of English technical writing Chapters on the history of the proposal and the history of reports deal with topics never before researched The chapter on the history of the paragraph shows that paragraphs existed 300 years before composition historians have stated because technical writing has not been included in studies of the history of English discourse Even though the majority of English writing is practical writing in any era it continues to be ignored by social and literary historians Only book length studies of the type published here will fill this void Technical writing will not become a discipline unless we have a series of books providing a clear foundation that unearths its existence and shows its contribution to all of our writing today in the workplace and other nonacademic settings

Doing Research in Applied Linguistics Jim McKinley, Heath Rose, 2016-12-08 Doing Research in Applied Linguistics Realities dilemmas and solutions provides insight and guidance for those undertaking research and shows the reader how to deal with the challenges of this research involving real people in real settings. Featuring over twenty chapters by experienced and up and coming researchers from around the world, this book outlines the steps involved in solving the problem and completing a successful and publishable project. It provides case studies of obstacles faced at each stage of research from preliminary planning to report writing, addresses issues of validity and reliability during data collection and analysis, discusses ethical issues in research dealing with vulnerable groups including children, refugees and students, includes examples from longitudinal studies and both qualitative and quantitative research. Doing Research in Applied Linguistics is essential reading for students studying research methods or for those embarking on their first research project in applied linguistics or language education. African American Rhetoric\(s\) Elaine B Richardson, Ronald L Jackson, 2007-02-12 African American Rhetoric: Interdisciplinary Perspectives is an introduction to fundamental concepts and a systematic integration of historical and contemporary lines of inquiry in the study of African American rhetorics. Edited by Elaine B Richardson and Ronald L Jackson II, the volume explores culturally and discursively developed forms of knowledge, communicative practices and persuasive strategies rooted in freedom struggles by people of African ancestry in America. Outlining African American rhetorics found in literature, historical documents and popular culture, the collection provides scholars, students and teachers with innovative approaches for discussing the epistemologies and realities that foster the inclusion of rhetorical discourse in African American studies. In addition to analyzing African American rhetoric, the fourteen contributors project visions for pedagogy in the field and address new areas and renewed avenues of research. The result is an exploration of what parameters can be used to begin a more thorough and useful consideration of African Americans in rhetorical space. Reinventing \(with\) Theory in Rhetoric and Writing Studies Andrea Alden, Kendall Gerdes, Judy Holiday, Ryan Skinnell, 2019-10-21 Reinventing with Theory in Rhetoric and Writing Studies collects original scholarship that takes up and extends the practices of inventive theorizing that characterize Sharon Crowley's body of work. Including sixteen chapters by established and emerging scholars and an interview with Crowley, the book shows that doing theory is a contingent and continual rhetorical process that is indispensable for understanding situations and their potential significance and for discovering the available means of persuasion. For Crowley, theory is a basic building block of rhetoric produced by and within specific times and locations as a means of opening other ways of believing or acting. Doing theory in this sense is the practice of surveying the common sense of the community doxa and discovering the available means of persuasion, invention. The ultimate goal of doing theory is not to prescribe certain actions but to ascertain what options exist for rhetors to see the world differently, to discover new possibilities for thought and action and thereby to effect change in the world. The scholarship collected in Reinventing with Theory in Rhetoric and Writing Studies takes Crowley's notion of theory as an invitation to develop new avenues for believing and acting. By reinventing the understanding of theory and its role in the field, this collection makes an important contribution.
