

Boxer Engine Series Module

2.2L Engine (Phase 1) Features

The 2.2L SOHC four valves per cylinder engine is an addition to the existing Subaru "Boxer" design. The horizontally opposed, 4 stroke, 4 cylinder, liquid cooled, gasoline engine has aluminum alloy block and heads. It uses a normally aspirated MPI system. The cylinder liners are of a cast iron dry type design.

Cylinder Head Design

The 2.2L engine uses a cross-flow cylinder head design similar to the 1800cc OHC engine. Better breathing is provided by the two intake and two exhaust valves per cylinder which improves the intake and exhaust flow.

In addition, fine-tuned high velocity intake and exhaust ports are used. The dual intake and exhaust ports are siamesed to further improve intake and exhaust flow.

Combustion Chamber

The 2.2L engine uses a compact pentroof combustion chamber vs the bathtub design of the 1800cc/2700cc engines. It has a centrally located spark plug which provides the quickest, most efficient combustion with a uniform flame front from the plug to the top of the piston. This, combined with the 30 degree valve angle compliments the pentroof combustion chamber shape optimizing low and medium speed torque. The cylinder heads are not interchangeable.

Valve Components

The valve train uses a single valve spring system vs the dual spring system of the old 1800cc engine. The intake valves are larger than the exhaust valves. The valve seal color determines location: intake seals are black, exhaust seals are brown.
