Culture and Political Crisis in Vienna John W. Boyer,1995-08-15 In this sequel to Political Radicalism in Late Imperial Vienna John Boyer picks up the history of the Christian Social movement after founder Karl Lueger s rise to power in Vienna in 1897 and traces its evolution from a group of disparate ward politicians through its maturation into the largest single party in the Austrian parliament by 1907 to its major role in Imperial politics during the First World War Boyer argues that understanding the unprecedented success that this dissident bourgeois political group had in transforming the basic tenets of political life is crucial to understanding the history of the Central European state and the ways in which it was slowly undermined by popular electoral politics The movement s efforts to save the Austrian Empire by trying to create an economically integrated but ethnically pluralistic state are particularly enlightening today in the shadow of ethnic violence in Sarajevo where began the end of the Austrian Empire in 1914 The most comprehensive account of any mass political movement in late nineteenth century Central Europe this two volume work is crucial reading for anyone interested in Hapsburg history German history or the history of social democracy

Skills for Government Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Public Administration Select Committee,2007-08-06 The work of the Civil Service affects every UK citizen and it performs many of its tasks admirably despite enormous challenges of delivery in a world of increasing public expectations The Government has been committed to a programme to increase the skills and professionalism of the Civil Service including the introduction of the Professional Skills for Government initiative and restructured the Centre for Management and Policy Studies into the National School of Government It has also carried out a series of departmental capability reviews to identify areas for skills improvement The Committee s report examines the implementation of these policies and the progress made to to meet the challenges of managing a modern civil service Findings include that many of these programmes lack overall coherence with a clear focus needed on the organisation growing its own talent Departments should get central aid and encouragement to run internal fast track schemes and to equip their staff with suitable vocational or academic qualifications to allow considered workforce planning The value of external recruitment to improving the Civil Service may be overemphasised and as a rule external recruitment should not be taking place at the highest echelons of the service and should not focus predominantly on the private sector
