Veal Franchise Recipe:

The Food Pusher's Cookbook Rick Melfi, 2011-06 It wasn't until I was a student at the Culinary Institute of America in the late 1970s that I first realized that growing up as a first generation Italian American family in the Bronx and New Jersey wasn't as typical as I had thought. My parents and their parents were all born and raised in Italy. Throughout my youth and beyond, my father and mother referred to their five children, four boys and a girl, by the number in the order of which we were born. To this day, my mother still occasionally refers to me as Number Two Son. But when it came to hanging around the kitchen, I was definitely the number one pest. I was the little punk kid always by my mother's side as she was cooking or baking. I would jockey for position wherever my mother moved, stand on a kitchen chair up against the stove and otherwise constantly be in her way as I tried to get a better look at whatever was being done. Same when either of the grandmothers, Nona Lisa or Grandma Melfi or other relatives were there. Maybe it was something in the water around Pisa, but I suspect it's a genetic condition. For my mother, her mother, cousins, aunts, and countless generations before them, in this food-fueled bloodline, the world revolved around the kitchen and dining room table. Life was not good unless family, friends, or anyone close to the dinner table was fed to excess, ritually seduced with course after course of delicious, abundant, and temptingly presented food. This attitude seemed to pervade all branches of the family, but my inspiration and mentor was Maria Gracia Melfi, aka Mama Melfi, aka The Food Pusher. Restaurant Business, 1996

Papa Joe's Kitchen Table Joe Marziano, 2015-08-04 This is more than a cookbook. Yes, it contains 216 pages with 160 recipes along with many helpful hints, internal temperature guide, ounces to cups conversion chart, and much more. It is also the story of a 19-year-old and his dream and accomplishments. We hope that you enjoy cooking some of the recipes as much as we enjoyed writing the book. We also hope that you enjoy cooking with your family, especially with your children, and they grow up with the same fond memories of their childhood in the kitchen with their family as we have. It seems that today, families do not spend enough quality time with their children. When I was growing up, I had to be home and at the dinner table at 5:00 or else. Make dinner time fun for your children and look forward to it every day. Maybe a few of you have a dream of opening a restaurant, and after reading this book, you will take the plunge and open a restaurant. It was not easy in 1964, and it is not easy today, but when you succeed, it will be worth it. We would like to hear from you and answer as many questions that we can. Just go to our web site www.papajoeskitchen.com and we will respond to as many as we can.
