- 1 The most common cause of stress for those newly involved in the construction industry is a lack of knowledge of the construction process. This can be overcome by taking a course in construction management or by seeking out a mentor who can provide guidance and support.
- 2 One of the most common causes of stress in the construction industry is the pressure to complete a project on time and within budget. This can be managed by creating a realistic schedule and budget, and by communicating with the client and stakeholders throughout the project.
- 3 Another common cause of stress is the physical demands of the job. Construction workers often work long hours in hot or cold weather, and may be required to perform physically demanding tasks. This can be managed by taking breaks, staying hydrated, and wearing appropriate protective gear.
- 4 Finally, the construction industry is often a high-stakes environment, with the potential for accidents and injuries. This can be managed by following safety protocols, receiving proper training, and wearing safety equipment at all times.
