Living Racism

Derrick R. Broome, Theresa Rajack-Talley, 2017-12-15 Living Racism is based on the premise that race and racism are well-entrenched elements of US society. The contributors of this volume argue that race and racism are more than mere concepts; instead, they see and treat these as part of the fabric that constitutes and organizes everyday life. Consequently, race and racism are maintained through structures such as social institutions, e.g., schools, criminal justice system, media, etc., and are carried by individual actors through racial ideologies and a racial etiquette, beliefs, practices, traditions, and customs that inform how people relate to and interact with one another or not. As expressed throughout this book, the notion of living racism is twofold. On the one hand, living racism denotes the ways in which racism is embodied and active, much like a living organism. On the other hand, living racism connects with the ways that people must navigate racism in their individual and collective lives.

Foldases Natalya K. Nagradova, 2008 A great deal of talent has been called upon over the past decade to try and understand the structure and the function of different types of foldases as a result a remarkable insight into how these enzymes work has been gained Recently the main focus of research has begun to shift to unveiling the precise role of these folding catalysts in many different processes in which they are involved inside the cell It is becoming increasingly clear that the cellular functions of foldases go far beyond accelerating the folding of proteins This is undoubtedly an area where one can expect significant research efforts in the next few years The present book summarises the current state of knowledge as to the structural and functional properties of four major types of foldases listed above In structuring the material the author has sought to maintain a balance between historical development and current understanding while also trying to look to the future and anticipate where the field is likely to move
