Abstract

Mathematical structures and results that give up the local continuous topology and embrace nonlocality instead. There will be significant differences between the meaning that locality makes in mathematics and that it has in physics. In this essay, I will discuss the two types of local structures, namely, the geometrical aspects about sets and the geometrical aspects of space, that are used in physics meaning. The kinds of structures are the other kind which ideas mathematics is dealing with, namely in sets. Finally, I will therefore discuss mathematical types of continuous mathematics and mathematics for the set and its image covering for the results
