The Demography of South Africa Tukufu Zuberi, Amson Sibanda, Eric O. Udjo, 2016-07-22 This groundbreaking study of South Africa provides a unique look at the interplay of demographic social and economic processes in a society undergoing rapid change as a result of the collapse of apartheid. It uses data from the first post apartheid census as the basis for analysis of fertility mortality within the context of HIV AIDS migration education employment and household structure. These census data are complemented by large scale household surveys and data from a partial registration system to study the relationships among various demographic economic and social phenomena. For the first time the demographic consequences of both the longer term impact of apartheid policies and the policies of the new South Africa are examined and compared. This comprehensive reference links the demographic behavior of South Africa's various population groups to social economic and political inequalities created by policies of separate and unequal development. Prepared under the auspices of the Population Studies Center at the University of Pennsylvania it is an essential resource for all scholars and practitioners in the field.

The Demography of South Africa, In nine essays originating from the running Miami International Relations Group seminar the editors and contributors introduce constructivism as an alternative to studying IR from a historical and systems analytical framework. They advance constructivism in the context of the perennial agent structure debate discuss international relations under social construction as in national identity feminist struggle and global Internet governance and reconstructing the discipline.
