Shaw, 1991-02-21. This book provides an integrated thorough and up to date review of the nature and development of the Kalahari environment, an environment of great ecological and geomorphological diversity. Its complex climatic and geological history and its long association with human societies attempting to utilise its natural resources are aspects of increasing scientific interest. The book has evolved from the authors own research in the Kalahari and attempts to provide explanations and answers to some of the many questions raised about this region ranging from the commonly asked 'is it really a desert?' to more specific and detailed concerns. The interdisciplinary approach will make the book of interest to researchers, lecturers and advanced students in earth sciences, environmental studies, tropical geomorphology and Quaternary science. The extensive bibliography will also make the book a very important source of reference. Options for Wastewater Management in Harare, Zimbabwe Innocent Nhapi, 2014-04-21. challenges of the human environment techniques of spatial analysis Applied geography is the application of geographic knowledge and skills to identify the nature and causes of social economic and environmental problems and inform policies which lead to their resolution Taiwan in Africa Sabella Ogbobode Abidde,2022-11-08 While China's role and place in Africa has garnered a lot of scholarly attention be it praise or condemnation not much has been written about Taiwan's role and place on the continent even though Taiwan was a major player and partner in Africa's quest for growth and development From the 1960s to 1971 more African countries had diplomatic relations with Taiwan as opposed to China But less than five decades after the United Nations General Assembly Resolution 2758 was passed there has been a reversal of fortune in terms of supremacy and diplomatic recognition with only one country Eswatini recognizing Taiwan as an independent country

State of Food Insecurity in Harare, Zimbabwe Tawodzera, Godfrey, Zanamwe, Lazarus, 2016-10-17 Harare is at the epicentre of the economic meltdown and political crisis that has devastated Zimbabwe over the last decade and led to a mass exodus from the country Those who remained in Zimbabwe's largest city and capital endured unprecedented hardship as the formal economy collapsed unemployment soared and poverty deepened Household surveys conducted in Harare with official sanction between 2003 and 2009 appear to demonstrate that food insecurity was not a particularly serious problem a conclusion sharply at odds with reality In 2008 at the height of the crisis AFSUN therefore implemented its own baseline food security survey in Harare using a well tested and reliable methodology This paper presents and discusses the results of that survey and shows that Harare had become the most food insecure city in the SADC region by 2008 Levels of food insecurity were extraordinarily high as poor households struggled to find the income to purchase what little food was available in the shops and informal markets The paper demonstrates that participation in the informal food economy was the major response to the crisis providing poor households with a modicum of food and income Urban agriculture for home consumption also grew in importance as a crisis response While the political and economic situation in Zimbabwe has stabilised somewhat since 2008 the long term impact of many years of enforced food insecurity on the city population is incalculable This paper concludes with the recommendation that ongoing monitoring of the urban food security situation in Harare is essential in order to begin to develop national and municipal policies that could ensure a food secure future for the city
