Stine, nothing is what it seems. From cannibalistic children to an unwitting date with a vampire to a crush on a boy who just might be a werewolf, no scary story is left unturned. A must-have for all fans of the genre. 13 Stories High Lord Dermond, 2003-08-24. Childhood has killed all the faith I may have had in my own immortality. The house I grew up in was a dead-end ranch in an anonymous stretch of the suburbs. Inside the walls were yellow and smoky, covered with disease and nicotine instead of sunshine. Death hung in the air along with cigar smoke and tension. My father smoked green Optimo cigars and drank Scotch. He drank everything. He could tell you he loved you and in an instant turn your warm tears to blood. My father hated life and being his son. I was on the receiving end of his emotions on a daily basis. He was my first model of perfection, strange as that may seem. The alcoholism that developed in my teenage years and the self-destructive death trip that followed was a result of his abuse. Had I been taught early on to value myself, it would've saved years and pages of pain. Sadly, this was not the case. My father would reduce me to a walking void not long after my first conscious memory, a hole that could take a lifetime to fill, maybe if I'm lucky. From Sunday Morning Thirteen Months Thirteen Stories One Tour Jerzy Zarzycki, 2002-08-26. Jerzy Zarzycki, a Vietnam Veteran, has written and collected a number of short stories that correspond to his memories of thirteen months he served in a combat zone. A student of Hemingway, he strives to write not only reality but fiction in a clean, concise, and uncluttered manner that Ernest himself wrestled with all the while, depicting the struggle that men endure trying to understand and prove their manhood. Sometimes humorous, sometimes horrible, the stories exhibit true human emotion, not always good, and the results it elicits from the people involved. Zarzycki makes no excuses for himself or his characters, explaining that sometimes people set events in motion and the people they affect have no control over what happens to them in the present or the future. Women of Mystery Martha Hailey DuBose, Margaret C. Thomas, 2000-12-11. And though she laments, so many mysteries, so little time, she makes a good effort at mentioning some of the best of the rest. BOOK JACKET Secrets from the Agatha Christie Archives Jared Cade, 2025-02-05.
