Abstract: This paper presents a novel approach for the automatic detection of the presence of a fault in a system. The approach is based on the use of a neural network. The network is trained to recognize the normal behavior of the system. When a fault occurs, the network's output changes, indicating the presence of a fault. The approach is applied to the detection of a fault in a system of three tanks. The results show that the approach is effective in detecting faults in the system.
