What A Plant Knows A Field Guide To The Senses:

What a Plant Knows Daniel Chamovitz, 2020-10-06 Thoroughly updated from root to leaf this revised edition of the groundbreaking What a Plant Knows includes new revelations for lovers of all that is vegetal and verdant. Plants can hear and taste things too. The renowned biologist Daniel Chamovitz builds on the original edition to present an intriguing look at how plants themselves experience the world from the colors they see to the schedules they keep and now what they do in fact hear and how they are able to taste. A rare inside look at what life is really like for the grass we walk on, the flowers we sniff and the trees we climb. What a Plant Knows offers a greater understanding of their place in nature. What a Plant Knows

Daniel Chamovitz, 2012-05-22 Explores the secret lives of various plants from the colors they see to whether or not they really like classical music to their ability to sense nearby danger. What a Plant Knows Daniel Chamovitz, 2013-03-07 How does a Venus flytrap know when to snap shut? Can an orchid get jet lag? Does a tomato plant feel pain when you pluck a fruit from its vines? And does your favourite fern care whether you play Bach or the Beatles? Combining cutting edge research with lively storytelling, biologist Daniel Chamovitz explores how plants experience our shared Earth through sight, smell, touch, hearing, memory, and even awareness. Whether you are a green thumb, a science buff, a vegetarian, or simply a nature lover, this rare inside look at the life of plants will surprise and delight. What a Plant Knows Daniel Chamowitz, 2012 A captivating journey into the inner lives of plants from the colours they see to the schedules they keep. How does a Venus flytrap know when to snap shut? Can it feel an insect's spindly legs? How do roses know when it's spring? Do they remember the weather? Now in What a Plant Knows, renowned biologist Daniel Chamovitz presents a beguiling exploration of how plants experience our shared Earth in terms of sight, smell, taste, touch, hearing, memory, and even awareness. Combining cutting edge research with lively storytelling, Chamovitz explains phenomena such as how a willow tree knows when its neighbours have been commandeered by an army of ravenous beetles and why an avocado ripens when you give it the company of a banana in a bag. And he settles the debate once and for all over whether your beloved basil plant cares if you play Led Zeppelin or Bach. Chamovitz reveals that plants have much in common with people; far more, most of us realise. Whether you have a green thumb or are a science buff, a vegetarian, or simply a nature lover, this rare inside look at the life of plants will delight all who read it. Plants in Science Fiction Katherine E. Bishop, David Higgins, Jerry Määttä, 2020-05-01 This is the first volume of its kind. Plants in Science Fiction shows how considerations of plant life in SF can transform our understanding of institutions and boundaries, erecting and dismantling new visions of utopian and dystopian futures. Its original essays argue that plant life in SF is transforming our attitudes toward morality, politics, economics, and cultural life. Flowers and Honeybees

Christopher Ketchum, 2020-05-11 Can we discover morality in nature? Flowers and Honeybees extends the considerable scientific knowledge of flowers and honeybees through a philosophical discussion of the origins of morality in nature.

Flowering plants and honeybees form a social group where each requires the other. They do not intentionally harm each other.

both reason and they do not compete for commonly required resources They also could not be more different Flowering plants are rooted in the ground and have no brains Mobile honeybees can communicate the location of flower resources to other workers We can learn from a million year old social relationship how morality can be constructed and maintained over time

Signs in the Dust Nathan Lyons, 2019-02-28 Modern thought is characterized by a dichotomy of meaningful culture and unmeaning nature Signs in the Dust uses medieval semiotics to develop a new theory of nature and culture that resists this familiar picture of things Through readings of Thomas Aquinas Nicholas of Cusa and John Poincaré John of St Thomas it offers a semiotic analysis of human culture in both its anthropological breadth as an enterprise of creaturely sign making and its theological height as a finite participation in the Trinity which can be understood as an absolute cultural nature Signs in the Dust then extends this account of human culture backwards into the natural depth of biological and physical nature It puts the biosemiotics of its medieval sources along with Félix Ravaisson's philosophy of habit into dialogue with the Extended Evolutionary Synthesis that is emerging in contemporary biology to show how all living things participate in semiosis so that that a cultural dimension is present through the whole order of nature and the whole of natural history It also retrieves Aquinas doctrine of intentions in the medium to show how signification can be attributed in a diminished way to even inanimate nature with the ontological implication that being as such should be reconceived in semiotic terms The phenomena of human culture are therefore to be understood not as breaks with a meaningless nature but instead as heightenings and deepenings of natural movements of meaning that long precede and far exceed us Against the modern divorce of nature and culture Signs in the Dust argues that culture is natural and nature is cultural through and through Life Writing in the Anthropocene Jessica White, Gillian Whitlock, 2021-05-27 Life Writing in the Anthropocene is a collection of timely and original approaches to the question of what constitutes a life how that life is narrated and what lives matter in autobiography studies in the Anthropocene This era is characterised by the geoengineering impact of humans which is shaping the planet's biophysical systems through the combustion of fossil fuels production of carbon unprecedented population growth and mass extinction These developments threaten the rights of humans and other than humans to just and sustainable lives In exploring ways of representing life in the Anthropocene this work articulates innovative literary forms such as ecobiography the representation of a human subject's entwinement with their environment phytography writing the lives of plants and ethological poetics the study of nonhuman poetic forms providing scholars and writers with innovative tools to think and write about our strange new world In particular its recognition on plant life reminds us of how human lives are entwined with vegetal lives The creative and critical essays in this book shaped by a number of Antipodean authors bear witness to a multitude of lives and deaths The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of a b Auto Biography Studies

Nature's Fabric David Lee, 2017-09-28 Leaves are all around us in backyards cascading from window boxes even emerging from small cracks in city sidewalks given the slightest glint of sunlight Perhaps because they are everywhere it's easy to overlook the humble leaf but a close look at them provides one of the most enjoyable ways to connect with the natural world A lush incredibly informative tribute to the leaf Nature's Fabric offers an introduction to the science of leaves weaving biology and chemistry with the history of the deep connection we feel with all things growing and green Leaves come in a staggering variety of textures and shapes they can be smooth or rough their edges smooth lobed or with tiny teeth They have adapted to their environments in remarkable often stunningly beautiful ways from the leaves of carnivorous plants which have tiny trigger hairs that signal the trap to close to the impressive defense strategies some leaves have evolved to reduce their consumption Recent studies suggest for example that some plants can detect chewing vibrations and mobilize potent chemical defenses In many cases we've learned from the extraordinary adaptations of leaves such as the invention of new self cleaning surfaces inspired by the slippery coating found on leaves But we owe much more to leaves and Lee also calls our attention back to the fact that that our very lives and the lives of all on the planet depend on them Not only is foliage is the ultimate source of food for every living thing on land its capacity to cycle carbon dioxide and oxygen can be considered among evolution's most important achievements and one that is critical in mitigating global climate change Taking readers through major topics like these while not losing sight of the small wonders of nature we see every day if you'd like to identify a favorite leaf Lee's glossary of leaf characteristics means you won't be left out on a limb Nature's Fabric is eminently readable and full of intriguing research sure to enhance your appreciation for these extraordinary green machines

Korsgaard, 2018-06-18 Christine M Korsgaard presents a compelling new view of humans moral relationships to the other animals She defends the claim that we are obligated to treat all sentient beings as what Kant called ends in themselves Drawing on a theory of the good derived from Aristotle she offers an explanation of why animals are the sorts of beings for whom things can be good or bad She then turns to Kant s argument for the value of humanity to show that rationality commits us to claiming the standing of ends in ourselves in two senses Kant argued that as autonomous beings we claim to be ends in ourselves when we claim the standing to make laws for ourselves and each other Korsgaard argues that as beings who have a good we also claim to be ends in ourselves when we take the things that are good for us to be good absolutely and so worthy of pursuit The first claim commits us to joining with other autonomous beings in relations of moral reciprocity The second claim commits us to treating the good of every sentient creature as something of absolute importance Korsgaard argues that human beings are not more important than the other animals that our moral nature does not make us superior to the other animals and that our unique capacities do not make us better off than the other animals She criticizes the marginal cases argument and advances a new view of moral standing as attaching to the atemporal subjects of lives She criticizes Kant s own view that our duties to animals are indirect and offers a non utilitarian account of the relation between pleasure and the good She also addresses a number of directly practical questions whether we have the right to eat animals experiment on them make them work for us and fight in our wars and keep them as pets and how to understand the wrong that we do when we cause a species to go extinct
