The Miryam Monologues:

The Miryam Monologues Michael Lapointe, 2014-10-23 From the moment I had known him conceived a bastard in a small village I had tried to protect him from his hostile family and neighbors and instill in him a sense of caution and self preservation Yet here he stood drawing the vastly more dangerous attentions of the priests and Romans I had raised a child I feared for not the one who would become this public man What a fool I felt My efforts as his mother had been miserably mistaken and so ended in this estrangement Miryam Mary of Nazareth as she witnesses her son Yeshua Jesus addressing a large crowd in Galilee The Miryam Monologues depicts the struggle of a fiercely protective woman to understand her son and to accept his fate Told from her own perspective these twenty six monologues record the growth of Miryam from a beleaguered fifteen year old girl into an inspired leader of her eldest son s followers The Miryam Monologues begins with a bold young woman whose indifference to convention ostracizes her from her community The marriage offered by Yosef Joseph saves Miryam from stoning but she doubts her husband believes her account of Yeshua s origin When Yeshua undertakes his mission to heal and teach Miryam watches in confusion helpless to protect her child as he exposes himself to the hostility of the priests and Romans As her son approaches his inevitable death Miryam fights to end her bitter alienation from him and in the last hours of his life to achieve her own redemption Women's Scenes and Monologues Joyce

A Question of Tradition Kathryn Hellerstein, 2014-07-23 In A Question of Tradition Kathryn Hellerstein explores the roles that women poets played in forming a modern Yiddish literary tradition Women who wrote in Yiddish go largely unrecognized outside a rapidly diminishing Yiddish readership Even in the heyday of Yiddish literature they were regarded as marginal But for over four centuries women wrote and published Yiddish poems that addressed the crises of Jewish history from the plague to the Holocaust as well as the challenges and pleasures of daily life prayer art friendship nature family and love Through close readings and translations of poems of eighteen writers Hellerstein argues for a new perspective on a tradition of women Yiddish poets Framed by a consideration of Ezra Korman's 1928 anthology of women poets Hellerstein develops a discussion of poetry that extends from the sixteenth century through the twentieth from early modern Prague and Krakow to high modernist Warsaw New York and California The poems range from early conventional devotions such as a printer s preface and verse prayers to experimental transgressive lyrics that confront a modern ambivalence toward Judaism In an integrated study of literary and cultural history Hellerstein shows the immensely important contribution made by women poets to Jewish literary tradition

Evil Within and Without Miryam T. Brand, 2013-05-15 Miryam T Brand explores how texts of the Second Temple period address the theological problem of the existence of sin and describe the source of human sin By surveying the relevant Apocrypha Pseudepigrapha and Dead Sea Scrolls as well as the works of Philo and where relevant Josephus the study determines the extent to which texts presentation of sin is influenced by genre and sectarian identification and identifies central worldviews regarding sin in the Second Temple period The analysis is divided into two parts the first explores texts that reflect a conviction that the source of sin is an innate human inclination and the second analyzes texts that depict sin as caused by demons The author demonstrates that the genre or purpose of a text is frequently a determining factor in its representation of sin particularly influencing the text s portrayal of sin as the result of human inclination versus demonic influence and sin as a free choice or as predetermined fact

Second Temple authors and redactors chose representations of sin in accordance with their aims. Thus prayers reflecting the experience of helplessness when encountering God present the desire to sin as impossible to overcome without divine assistance. In contrast, covenantal texts, sectarian texts explaining the nature of the covenant, emphasize freedom of choice and the human ability to turn away from the desire to sin. Genre, however, is not the only determining factor regarding how sin is presented in these texts. Approaches to sin in sectarian texts frequently built upon already accepted ideas reflected in nonsectarian literature, adding aspects such as predestination, the periodization of evil, and a division of humanity into righteous members and evil nonmembers.

The Routledge Companion to Butoh Performance Bruce Baird, Rosemary Candelario, 2018-09-03. The Routledge Companion to Butoh Performance provides a comprehensive introduction to and analysis of the global art form butoh. Originating in Japan in the 1960s, butoh was a major innovation in twentieth-century dance and performance, and it continues to shape and shift around the world. Taking inspiration from the Japanese avant-garde, Surrealism, Happenings, and authors such as Genet and Artaud, its influence can be seen throughout contemporary performing arts, music, and visual art practices. This Companion places the form in historical context, documents its development in Japan and its spread around the world, and brings together the theory and the practice of this compelling dance. The interdisciplinarity evident in the volume reflects the depth and the breadth of butoh, and the editors bring specially commissioned essays by leading scholars and dancers together with translations of important early texts. Dandyism and Transcultural Modernity Hsiao-yen Peng, 2015-01-28. This book views the Neo Sensation mode of writing as a traveling genre or style that originated in France, moved on to Japan, and then to China. The author contends that modernity is possible only on the transcultural site, transcultural in the sense of breaking the divide between past and present, elite and popular, national and regional, male and female, literary and non-literary, inside and outside. To illustrate the concept of transcultural modernity, three icons are highlighted on the transcultural site: the dandy, the flaneur, and the translator. Mere flaneurs and flaneuses simply float with the tide of heterogeneous information on the transcultural site, whereas the dandy, flaneur, and the cultural translator, propellers of modernity, manage to bring about transformative creation. Their performance marks the essence of transcultural modernity: the self-consciousness of working on the threshold, always testing the limits of boundaries and tempted to go beyond them. To develop the concept of dandyism, the quintessence of transcultural modernity, the Neo Sensation gender triad formed by the dandy, the modern girl, and the modern boy is laid out. Writers discussed include Liu Na'ou, a Shanghai dandy par excellence from Taiwan; Paul Morand, who looked upon Coco Chanel, the female dandy, as his perfect other self; and Yokomitsu Riichi, who developed the theory of Neo Sensation from Kant's "the thing in itself."
