collaboration sparks an unexpected connection mirroring the very phenomenon they're studying. Their shared grief intertwines with burgeoning attraction; their bond visualized within the Harmonizer as a dazzling symphony of light. But the Lumina isn't a paradise. It's a realm of raw emotion where unresolved traumas manifest as shadowy entities and the Null's sinister plan threatens to force all of humanity into this beautiful, terrifying dimension. Within the Lumina's radiant depths, Aurora and Ray must confront not only a scientific enigma but also the ghosts of their own pasts. Their journey challenges the boundaries of reality, forcing them to question the nature of love, loss, and the potential for human consciousness to transcend its physical form. Can they stop the Null and save humanity from a fate worse than oblivion? Or will they too succumb to the seductive light between us.

This Light Between Us Andrew Fukuda, 2025-09-23

Winner of the American Library Association's Asian Pacific American Award for Literature. For readers of The Librarian of Auschwitz, This Light Between Us is a powerfully affecting story of World War II about the unlikeliest of pen pals: a Japanese American boy and a French Jewish girl as they fight to maintain hope in a time of war. I remember visiting Manzanar and standing in the windswept plains where over ten thousand internees were once imprisoned; their voices cut off. I remember how much I wanted to write a story that did right by them. Hopefully, this book delivers.

Andrew Fukuda: In 1935, ten-year-old Alex Maki from Bainbridge Island, Washington, is disgusted when he's forced to become pen pals with Charlie Levy of Paris, France, a girl. He thought she was a boy. In spite of Alex's reluctance, their letters continue to fly across the Atlantic, and along with them, the shared hopes and dreams of friendship. Until the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor and the growing Nazi persecution of Jews force them to confront the darkest aspects of human nature. From the desolation of an internment camp on the plains of Manzanar to the horrors of Auschwitz and the devastation of European battlefields, the only thing they can hold onto are the memories of their letters. But nothing can dispel the light between them.
