

The Kissing Hand

BY ANNEKE PERM (CHILD & FAMILY PRESS, 1992)

After planting a gentle kiss in the palm of Chester's hand and tenderly wrapping his fingers around the warm, fuzzy sensation, Mrs. Raccoon explains that he now has a Kissing Hand—a reminder that her love stays with him whenever he goes. That night, Chester happily dashes off to school, but not without leaving Mrs. Raccoon a reminder of his love for her—a special Kissing Hand from him.

Raccoon Reassurances (Language Arts and Art)

Have children imagine they are older raccoons at Chester's school. Ask them to write letters of encouragement to the young crabs. Instruct them to include rights, needs, and activities that Chester can expect to see, hear, and do in his new class, especially the fun and interesting things that a young raccoon might enjoy. Then invite children to create paper-plate raccoon masks to wear while they read their letters aloud.

"Hand-y" Love Magnet (Art)

Students may wonder if grownups experience separation anxiety when they leave their kids at school. Explain that, often, adults are just as nervous about leaving their little ones as the little ones are about being left to experience new things. Then invite children to make these magnetic reminders to leave with parents or caregivers as handy reminders that their love stays with the adult even when they are at school.

1 Give each child one hand pattern from page 46 to cut out. Then direct students to cut out the center opening and back it with their photos, or a picture they've drawn of themselves.

2 Have them write their name on the line. Laminar the magnet.

3 Tell children to add a bow to the front of the magnet and a piece of magnetic tape to the back.
