

The Most Dangerous Game

There are many different literary devices an author can use to develop a story. They select literary devices to create a plot, set the mood, and build excitement in their story. In Richard Connell's short story "The Most Dangerous Game", he details his protagonist Rainsford, who discovers himself trapped on a Caribbean island. Connell is effective in using the literary devices of foreshadowing and suspense to bring a sense of fear and danger throughout his story.

As Connell begins his story, he uses conversation between Rainsford and his friend Whitney that foreshadows the main conflict in the story. As Rainsford and Whitney stand on the deck of the yacht, Rainsford explains, "The world is made up of two classes - the hunters and the huntees. Luckily, you and I are the hunters" (1). This use of foreshadowing suggests that the tables will soon be turned on the hunter.

The reader's thoughts are being prepared for the plot twist to come. Later, Whitney speaks about the island saying, "An evil place can, so to speak, broadcast vibrations of evil" (2). This remark continues to set the mood and tone for more evil events that take place later. Connell's use of foreshadowing is effective, because it prepares the reader's mind with a sense of fear and danger that will follow Rainsford on the island. His use of foreshadowing is also effective, because it helps to create the mood and conflict in the story.

Author, Richard Connell, continues to bring a sense of fear and danger in his story as he uses suspense to bring excitement and create the mood. Connell draws attention to Rainsford's courage and determination. While being hunted, Rainsford says, "I used to
