Me, the Old Man Bill Reed, 2015-03-03 I not only write books I am this book The actual person or persons After a flash flood in 1965 an elderly man became trapped down a Sydney parkland storm drain Children discovered him but did not tell their parents Instead they fed him a biscuit and a little water once a day for three weeks When he was finally rescued the flesh on his legs had become putrescent He could not remember how long he had been down there Bill Reed extends this situation to explore the interaction of innocence and inhumanity that is so prevalent in these days of random violence Here the old man like so many others has come to Australia with all the hopes of regeneration But the sun has not shone on him very much and his brother and sister have disowned him He has had to live in sordid hostels and to endure the barbs of a society that pays respect only to the fittest As his mind drifts the old man dreams he is back home in Belfast He has got beyond the smell of his own rotting flesh and the fleas and rats He no longer feels the cold or works up the desperation to plead with the children to get help He floats mentally waiting for the final water rush of the coming last storm And as he does so the author uses himself as a character to the story as one of the brutalisers the sheer fact of writing about the old man in this terrible state possibly morally aligning him to the teasing torturing children Using Edward Nugent's real writings to give an authentic voice to the old man doesn't help his frame of mind either Bill Reed has been involved in writing and publishing for most of his life in Australia Britain Canada and the Subcontinent He has had nine plays professionally staged and has written thirteen novels including 1001 Lankan Nights books 1 and 2 He has won national awards in playwriting short story and novel categories He now resides in Sri Lanka Edward Nugent was born in Belfast in 1900 and migrated to Australia after WW2 eventually living in a Salvation Army home in Adelaide where his major preoccupations were his manual typewriter and his old fiddle He tragically died in a room fire in 1979 two days after receiving an advanced copy of this book The quote above was his reaction

Baseball Norman L. Macht, 2015-10-01 In The Grand Old Man of Baseball Norman L. Macht chronicles Connie Mack's tumultuous final two decades in baseball. After Mack had built one of baseball's greatest teams, the 1929 Philadelphia Athletics, the Depression that followed the stock market crash fundamentally reshaped Mack's legacy as his team struggled on the field and at the gate. Among the challenges Mack faced was a sharp drop in attendance that forced him to sell his star players, the rise of the farm system which he was slow to adopt, the opposition of other owners to night games which he favored, the postwar integration of baseball which he initially opposed, a split between the team's heirs: Mack's sons Roy and Earle on one side, their half brother Connie Jr. on the other, that tore apart the family and forced Mack to choose unwisely between them, and finally the disastrous 1951-54 seasons in which Roy and Earle ran the club to the brink of bankruptcy. By now aged and mentally infirm, Mack watched in bewilderment as the business he had built fell apart. Broke and in debt, Roy and Earle feuded over the sale of the team. In a never before revealed series of maneuvers, Roy double-crossed his father and brother, and the team was sold and moved to Kansas City in 1954. In Macht's third volume of his trilogy on Mack, he describes the physical, mental, and financial decline of Mack's final years, which unfortunately became a classic American tragedy.

The Old Man in the Mountain and Other Stories Fairbanks, 2013-10 Exploring widely diverse settings from the wilds of the Australian Outback to urban adventures to biblical lands, this collection of short stories, poems, and other writings celebrates what it is to be Australian. It encompasses love, revenge, debauchery, wonder, loss, and uncertainty, but a common thread of hope emerges from the colourful and eccentric writings of bush author Fairbanks. An elder Aboriginal storyteller regales a group of eager tourists with an ancient story of betrayal, loss, and clever deception by The Old Man in the Mountain. In Tjamiti Ngunytji, an American youth is rescued by a character living in a remote outback Aboriginal community. After the devastating Black Saturday Bushfire destroyed his Victoria home and manuscripts, Fairbanks was inspired to capture the fleeting reflections of such an experience in The Smouldering Stump. Life is, as always, been and will continue to be a complex thing shaped by friendship and love, bonds, ugliness, and conflict, anticipation and uncertainty, comedy and joy, tragedy, mystery, and more. Above all, there is hope and beauty for those who look for it. The Old Man in the Mountain and Other Stories celebrates the many threads in the colourful tapestry of life with the quirky, sometimes irreverent Aussie sense of humour.

Ernest Hemingway's The Old Man And The Sea R.N. Singh, 1999 The Old Man And The Sea is undoubtedly one of the true classics of our generation. It marks the triumph of Hemingway as a literary artist. The greatest quality of this book is that it cannot be vitiated by public distortion in another medium for film purposes. It is in this book that Hemingway came to terms with himself and his universe and gave meaning to his private and individual existence. Since the publication of this novelette in 1952, it was so widely read and talked about that it earned its author the Pulitzer Prize the same year and was instrumental in winning him the Nobel Prize two years later. Since then, so much has been written on this book that it is very difficult, if not impossible, to say or write something new about this symbolic
