Read the passage below and answer the questions that follow.

Forming an opinion about an environmental issue is often difficult and may even seem overwhelming. It helps to have a systematic way of analyzing the issues and deciding what is important. In a simple decision-making model, the first step is to gather information. In addition to watching news reports and reading newspapers, magazines, and books about environmental issues, you should listen to well-informed people on all sides of an issue. Then consider which values apply to the issue. Explore the consequences of each option. Finally, evaluate all of the information and make a decision.
