Construction Engineering Ivan Mutis,Timo Hartmann,2018-10-08 This proceedings volume chronicles the papers presented at the 35th CIB W78 2018 Conference IT in Design Construction and Management held in Chicago IL USA in October 2018 The theme of the conference focused on fostering encouraging and promoting research and development in the application of integrated information technology IT throughout the life cycle of the design construction and occupancy of buildings and related facilities The CIB International Council for Research and Innovation in Building Construction was established in 1953 as an association whose objectives were to stimulate and facilitate international cooperation and information exchange between governmental research institutes in the building and construction sector with an emphasis on those institutes engaged in technical fields of research The conference brought together more than 200 scholars from 40 countries who presented the innovative concepts and methods featured in this collection of papers Building Futures Richard Garber,2023-08-29 BUILDING FUTURES An approach to Information Modeling engaging concepts of equality sustainability and labor as they relate to environment and architectural practice Building Futures Technology Ecology and Architectural Practice explores how architects and the buildings and environments we create can engage future realities both abstract and readily understood These range from climate change and public health to advanced ideas about manufacture and construction The text demonstrates multiple and hybrid paths in which building information modeling BIM and outgrowth technological processes including environmental simulation and human robot interaction can be utilized in today's contemporary context expanding the architect's agency by focusing on a more conceptual and ecological basis for our work. Moving beyond a basic understanding of the role of computation in architecture and design, the work shows how to think critically and speculatively about technology's deeper and more lasting impacts on both architecture and society. Topics covered in Building Futures include Technology information modeling and the relationship between computational and real objects, new approaches to coding in architectural design and direct to manufacture workflows, Environment understanding part to whole relationships at a variety of scales and the interconnectedness of things, post subjective architectural approaches to ecology and new ideas about sustainability, Practice revisiting architecture by remote control in the time of new global challenges and novel ideas about creativity, authorship and professionalism. Design professionals and practice leaders grappling with the relationship of technology to design pedagogy will use Building Futures to better theorize and execute their architectural vision. Students in upper level courses studying technique and theory will also find value in the work which prepares incoming professionals for the major changes that the Architecture Engineering and Construction (AEC) industry may undergo in the coming years and decades. The book prompts us to consider simulating events where architecture and architects could mitigate, redirect or develop contingencies in relation to the environment, flows of material and capital and other things that operate from the immediate through to almost geological timescales. From the Foreword by Robert Stuart Smith, Director of the Autonomous Manufacturing Lab, University of Pennsylvania.

Media Authorship
Cynthia Chris, David A. Gerstner, 2013-02-15 Contemporary media authorship is frequently collaborative, participatory, non site specific or quite simply goes unrecognized. In this volume, media and film scholars explore the theoretical debates around authorship, intention and identity within the rapidly transforming and globalized culture industry of new media. Defining media broadly across a range of creative artifacts and production cultures from visual arts to videogames, from textiles to television, contributors consider authoring practices of artists, designers, do-it-yourselfers, media professionals, scholars and others. Specifically, they ask: What constitutes media and authorship in a technologically converged, globally conglomerated, multiplatform environment for the production and distribution of content? What can we learn from cinematic and literary models of authorship and critiques of those models with regard to authorship not only in television and recorded music but also interactive media such as videogames and the Internet? How do we conceive of authorship through practices in which users generate content collaboratively or via appropriation? What institutional prerogatives and legal debates around intellectual property rights, fair use and copyright bear on concepts of authorship in new media? By addressing these issues, Media Authorship demonstrates that the concept of authorship as formulated in literary and film studies is reinvigorated, contested, remade even reauthored by new practices in the digital media environment.
