Discrimination in an Unequal World Miguel Angel Centeno, Katherine S. Newman, 2010-09 Is globalization making our world more equal or less Proponents of globalization argue that it is helping and that in a competitive world no one can afford to discriminate except on the basis of skills Opponents counter that globalization does nothing but provide a meritocratic patina on a consistently unequal distribution of opportunity Yet despite the often deafening volume of the debate there is surprisingly little empirical work available on the extent to which the process of globalization over the past quarter century has had any effect on discrimination Tackling this challenge Discrimination in an Unequal World explores the relationship between discrimination and unequal outcomes in the appropriate geographical and historical context Noting how each society tends to see its particular version of discrimination as universal and obvious the editors expand their set of cases to include a broad variety of social relations and practices However since methods differ and are often designed for particular national circumstances they set the much more ambitious and practical goal of establishing a base with which different forms of discrimination across the world can be compared Derived from a broad array of methods the book draws many important lessons on the new means by which the world creates social hierarchies the democratization of inequality and the disappearance of traditional categories

Africa 2008 OECD,2008-09-05 Gives a brief overview of regional issues and the history of education in South Africa and describes the development of education in the country over the past 15 years It presents an analysis of the education system identifying key directions for The Future We Chose Busani Ngcaweni,2014-01-17 This book foregrounds emerging and different perspectives on the centenary of the ANC which was celebrated in February 2012 Differing in tenor methodology and style we present nineteen chapters that tackle various epochs and events in the making of the centenary of the oldest political organisation in Africa The book offers new angles to our understanding of what sustained the ANC over one hundred years in spite of all the internal and external contradictions There is arguably a view that part of what distinguishes the ANC from other revolutionary movements in the continent is that from the turn of the twentieth century its founders prioritised national unity across tribal ethnic linguistic religious gender and racial identities This ideal of national unity informed their responses to the formation of the Union of South Africa in 1910 and the declaration of the South African Republic in 1961 In principle the leadership was opposed not to these manifestations of concrete nation state formation but to the practice of excluding the majority of South African citizens according to racial markers As a contribution to the historiography of the ANC and that of South Africa which it was established to liberate the book tackles the following critical questions what traits in the ANC s genetic code have kept it alive for one hundred years Is the ANC on course to meeting its historical mission of building an equitable nonracial non sexist and socially democratic society as articulated in the Africans Claims the Freedom Charter and the Strategy and Tactics documents Finally would the ANC continue to retain relevance for a bicentenary especially as it now contends with new internal and external contradictions in an increasingly unequally society and unipolar world order This new hypothetical architecture hopefully will be employed by many others engaged in the study of the rise and fall of political organisations Socio-Economic Perspectives on Vocational Skill Development: Emerging Research and Opportunities
