From Complex Sentences to a Formal Semantic Representation using Syntactic Text Simplification and Open Information

Extraction Christina Niklaus, 2022-08-29 This work presents a discourse aware Text Simplification approach that splits and rephrases complex English sentences within the semantic context in which they occur Based on a linguistically grounded transformation stage complex sentences are transformed into shorter utterances with a simple canonical structure that can be easily analyzed by downstream applications To avoid breaking down the input into a disjointed sequence of statements that is difficult to interpret the author incorporates the semantic context between the split propositions in the form of hierarchical structures and semantic relationships thus generating a novel representation of complex assertions that puts a semantic layer on top of the simplified sentences In a second step she leverages the semantic hierarchy of minimal propositions to improve the performance of Open IE frameworks She shows that such systems benefit in two dimensions First the canonical structure of the simplified sentences facilitates the extraction of relational tuples leading to an improved precision and recall of the extracted relations Second the semantic hierarchy can be leveraged to enrich the output of existing Open IE approaches with additional meta information resulting in a novel lightweight semantic representation for complex text data in the form of normalized and context preserving relational tuples

M Grady,2020-11-26 This book explores five important areas where technology affects society and suggests ways in which human communication can facilitate the use of that technology Usability has become a foundational discipline in technical and professional communication that grows out of our rhetorical roots which emphasize purpose and audience As our appreciation of audience has grown beyond engineers and scientists to lay users of technology our appreciation of the diversity of those audiences in terms of age geography and other factors has similarly expanded We are also coming to grips with what Thomas Friedman calls the flat world a paradigm that influences how we communicate with members of other cultures and speakers of other languages And because most of the flatteners are either technologies themselves or technology driven technical and professional communicators need to leverage these technologies to serve global audiences Similarly we are inundated with information about world crises involving health and safety issues These crises are driven by the effects of terrorism the aging population HIV AIDS and both human made and natural disasters These issues are becoming more visible because they are literally matters of life and death Furthermore they are of special concern to audiences that technical and professional communicators have little experience targeting the shapers of public policy seniors adolescents and those affected by disaster Biotechnology is another area that has provided new roles for technical and professional communicators We are only beginning to understand how to communicate the science accurately without either deceiving or panicking our audience We need to develop a more sophisticated understanding of how communication can shape reactions to biotechnology developments Confronting this complex network of issues we re challenged to fashion both our message and the audience s perceptions ethically Finally today s corporate environment is being shaped by technology and the global nature of business Technical and professional communicators can play a role in capturing and managing knowledge in using technology effectively in the virtual workplace and in understanding how language shapes organizational culture The Mindful Way through Depression Mark Williams,John Teasdale,Zindel Segal,Jon Kabat-Zinn,2012-02-08 This book has been replaced by Mindful Way through Depression Second Edition ISBN 978 1 4625 5392 1 Versions of Antihumanism Stanley Eugene Fish,2012-04-19 Stanley Fish s finest published work is brought together here with brand new material on Milton and on other authors and topics in early modern literature Lucid provocative direct and inimitable this book is required reading for anyone teaching or studying Milton and early modern literary studies Good English, Oral and Written ... William Harris Elson,Lura E.
