Svengalis,Rhode Island LawPress,2008 New Hampshire Register, State Yearbook and Legislative Manual ,2014 The Quest for Environmental Regulatory Integration in the European Union Eberhard Bohne,2006-01-01 It is a commonplace that pollution knows no borders and that environmental law must allow for cross border implementation The European Union specifies this principle in EC directives on integrated pollution prevention and control IPPC on environmental impact assessment EIA and on the control of major accident hazards involving dangerous substances Seveso II This is the first book to investigate from both empirical and normative perspectives the effectiveness of these directives at the national level. It provides by far the most extensive comparative analysis and evaluation of the industrial permitting and inspections EIA and major accident prevention in the EU. Offering an in depth study of the transposition and implementation of EC environmental directives in eight EU member states: Denmark, France, Germany, Italy, the Netherlands, Spain, Sweden, and the United Kingdom, the author who has played a significant role in the formulation of environmental legislation and regulation at both the national German and EU levels, and provides a stable base for an assessment of the benefits and costs of the integrated approach to environmental protection. Among the factors considered are the following key features of national constitutional administrative and judicial systems which provide the framework for environmental regulations and their implementation in the eight countries: under study procedures and substantive requirements transposing the IPPC, EIA and Seveso II directives into national laws and evaluation of national deficiencies and the extent of muddling through. The empirical part of Dr Bohne's analysis draws on 138 expert interviews with public and private actors, a survey of 178 public authorities and document analyses of selected industrial permits and environmental impact statements. His comparative analysis of procedural, organizational and substantive integration makes it possible to identify and compare national accomplishments in regulatory integration and offers new insights into the effectiveness and limits of EC law. The study concludes with a discussion of the implications of the findings for European governance and better regulation after the enlargement of the EU. This thoroughly researched, rigorous and insightful study will be of great interest and value to policymakers, regulators, business people, environmental NGOs, consultants and lawyers, as well as to students of environmental policies and European governance.

The Making of an African Working Class Pnina Werbner, 2014-07-20. It is now 50 years since E. P. Thompson published his classic The Making of the English Working Class. The Making of an African Working Class follows Thompson in exploring the formation of working class identity among low paid African workers. In arguing for a radical public anthropology of worker identity, the book seeks to analyse the cultural, legal, ideological and experiential dimensions of labour activism often neglected in other labour studies. Pnina Werbner shows that by fusing cosmopolitan and local popular cultural forms of protest, unionists have created a distinctive vernacular way of being a worker in Botswana, one that does not deny workers roots at home or in the countryside while being cognisant of a wider world of cosmopolitan labour rights. The assertion of working class dignity, honour and respect, Pnina argues, is a powerful motivating force for manual workers. Against legal sceptical approaches, The Making of an African Working Class argues that in challenging the government, their employer in court, manual workers' protests and mobilisation are deeply embedded in ethics, social justice and the law.
