

Unit 1: Investigation 1 (5 Days)

Systems of Linear Inequalities and Linear Programming

CCSS:

A.REI.D.10 Understand that the graph of an equation in two variables is the set of all its solutions plotted in the coordinate plane, often forming a curve (which could be a line).

A.REI.D.11 Explain why the x-coordinate of the points where the graphs of the equations $y = f(x)$ and $y = g(x)$ intersect are the solutions of the equation $f(x) = g(x)$; find the solutions approximately, e.g., using technology to graph the functions, make tables of values, or find successive approximations. Include where $f(x)$ and/or $g(x)$ are linear, rational, absolute value, exponential and logarithmic functions.

A.REI.D.12 Graph the solutions to a linear inequality in two variables as a half plane (excluding the boundary in the case of a strict inequality) and graph the solution set of a system of linear inequalities as the intersection of the corresponding half-planes.

Overview

This investigation builds on the mathematics learned in algebra one and extends students' understanding of algebra and graphing techniques to the solution of a system of linear inequalities. It then extends their understanding to modeling and solving LP optimization problems. Students will graph the solution set of a linear inequality in two variables and solve systems of inequalities graphically by hand, and with a graphing calculator. They will identify the boundary lines, half-planes, feasible region and vertices of a feasible region and determine the objective function for a real-world problem. Students will apply the Fundamental Principle of Linear Programming (the maximum/minimum solution occurs at a vertex of the feasible region when certain conditions are met such as the feasible region is bounded) and determine the optimal solutions to real-world problems. The students' experience solving optimization problems will result in an understanding of the historical applications and practical efficacy of linear programming and its importance in present day decision-making.

Assessment Activities

Evidence of Success: What Will Students Be Able to Do?

- Students will graph the solution set of a linear system of inequalities in two variables as the intersection of the corresponding system of half-planes, and interpret the result.
- Students will use linear programming to identify optimal solutions to practical problems.
