Modified Nanomaterials for Environmental Applications Onoyivwe Monday Ama, Suprakas Sinha Ray, Peter Ogbemudia Osifo, 2021-11-16 This book focuses on the electrochemical and nanostructural properties of new photoanode electrolyte combinations used in the development of novel surface modified nanomaterials for environmental applications. As water treatment is rapidly becoming a global challenge due to the increasing complexity and number of the various pollutants present, the book explores fundamental issues relating to environmental applications of nanomaterials. It addresses relevant topics ranging from electrochemical synthesis and characterization to applications of photoanodes in corrosion prevention and biosensors for wastewater treatment. Featuring up-to-date experimental results on nanomaterials for detection of pharmaceuticals and heavy metals in wastewater, this contributed volume is useful to electrochemical researchers, materials scientists, and chemical and civil engineers interested in advanced photoelectrochemical research for environmental applications.

Afrotropical Streams and Rivers Tatenda Dalu, Frank Masese, 2024-11-09 The Afrotropical Streams and Rivers Structure Ecological Processes and Management is a comprehensive guide that provides assessment of major rivers and tributaries in Africa. Unlike other books available, the editors present a thorough study of geomorphological, hydrological, biological, and ecological processes incorporating a range of plant and animal communities while considering implications of human communities that depend upon them. This book, edited by a diverse cohort of researchers and/or scholars, is intended as an educational and practical guide for graduate students, researchers, and scientists who focus on the biodiversity conservation and management policy issues of the African river systems. Provides a comprehensive introduction to African freshwater rivers, their biota, and abiotic processes. Contains unique case studies on African streams and rivers. Organised around an interdisciplinary approach that covers the complex aspects of conservation and management of African river.

systems on the continent Acid Mine Drainage and its Governance in the Gauteng City-Region Kerry Bobbins, 2015-05-29 Acid mine drainage AMD has generated an enormous amount of media interest and public concern in the Gauteng City Region GCR over the last decade. However, it has been framed as a narrow technical concern with government action being directed towards securing the necessary engineering and processing solutions as quickly as possible to prevent decant and treat acid mine water to industrial standards. This has arguably limited the scope for full discussion and debate on the impacts of AMD, particularly for the environment, and this bears implications for how AMD has been managed in the GCR. Government's immediate short and long term interventions to address AMD have been set out as a straight forward solution, but over time more complex environmental concerns have emerged. Becoming more evident over the last few years is that one of the main impacts of AMD will be its effect on the overall water security in the Vaal River System VRS on which the GCR relies for its supply of potable water. Limits on water abstraction from the VRS together with the increasing need to maintain the overall water quality in the system through dilution and treatment activities means that AMD is beginning to manifest as a binding constraint on economic development and a burden on society in particular via escalating costs for water consumers. Fiscal constraints are likely to see GCR residents and businesses pick up more and more of the costs associated with the treatment of AMD through the format of increased municipal tariffs. With final decisions on municipal tariffs now pending, the broader yet invisible impacts of AMD loom large. This means that the debate has moved far beyond the issue of predicted decant in each of the Witwatersrand's mining basins. Water security for the GCR and who will carry the costs associated with the long term treatment of AMD have instead taken centre stage. This paper carefully updates the historical record on AMD since the publishing of a GCRO Provocation on the issue in 2010. In doing so, it argues that the way in which AMD has been governed raises a flag around how the political economy of an issue such as AMD should be understood, publicly debated and managed. In particular, it suggests that the governance of an environmental challenge such as AMD is not only about finding a technical solution. The lack of platforms to ensure well informed public deliberation, especially over such issues as who will pay and how, must be addressed to ensure more equitable and transparent decision making. In light of the broader mine waste legacy inherited by the GCR and the strong likelihood of environmental contamination becoming more commonplace in the future, these concerns are not only limited to AMD. They will only grow in importance over time.

A scholarly inquiry into disciplinary practices in educational institutions Connie B. Zulu, Izak J. Oosthuizen, Charl C. Wolhuter, Corene de Wet, Rika Joubert, Ansie E. Kitching, Michael L. tertiary education settings The issue of discipline is investigated from diverse paradigmatic and methodological perspectives presenting empirical as well as also philosophical research The empirical perspective includes quantitative positivistic qualitative interpretive and mixed methods pragmatic designs and worldviews This book offers a ground breaking contribution to the field of learner and student discipline with insights into disciplinary practices and issues in educational institutions not hitherto researched such as Technical Vocational Education and Training colleges and universities The 2015 Regional Forecast and Urban Development Patterns Sonny Conder,1964 Trade Unions and the Age of Information and Communication Technologies in Kenya Eric E. Otenyo,2017-03-01 Trade Unions and the Age of Information and Communication Technologies in Kenya provides a comprehensive description of the use of ICTs within the trade union movement in Kenya In this book Professor Eric Otenyo explores the intersection between new technologies and union as key stakeholders in national governance and development The dearth of research on how trade unions can play a part in the new economy continues to undermine the effective use of ICTs in development This book brings to light the challenges that unions face while navigating the new economy and netstate characterized by a proliferation of ICTs and globalization The Common Good and Environmental Governance for the Support of Life Laura Westra,2016-08-17 The ongoing environmental crisis has given rise to grave concerns everywhere and a number of authors have approached this topic from various disciplines and points of view proposing different strategies to address and correct the situation A major problem however is presented by the role and possible efficiency of existing legal regimes most of which do not consider seriously the ecological problems that are the basis of most of the global problems that beset us In 2015 Italy hosted the 2015 Expo of Milano an important fair that attempted to address some of these major issues primarily the availability of safe food and water and the legal regimes that govern their distribution The conference that resulted in this volume took place at the University of Parma an old university in a city roughly one hour away This volume discusses a variety of environmental and ecological issues from the standpoint of existing legal instruments with a primary focus on the necessity for ecologically oriented governance in order to mitigate and redress a situation that at present supports multiple human rights violations

International Mediation in the South African Transition Zwelethu Jolobe,2019-04-09 This book challenges the conventional understanding of South Africa s transition to democracy as a home grown process through a comparative analysis of Commonwealth and United Nations mediation attempts Approaching power transition through the lens of South Africa Zwelethu Jolobe raises questions about how methods and types of mediation are understood and their appropriateness for certain stages of negotiation processes International Mediation in the South African Transition calls into question the generalisations about the determinants of success by international third parties in resolving internal conflicts It moves from the position that the success of a mediation effort depends on the examination of the time horizon of a conflict and on the contribution the mediation effort plays in improving the relationship between the belligerents The book argues that the international community particularly the Commonwealth and the United Nations played a profound and beneficial role in the political transition to end apartheid International Mediation in the South African Transition will be of interest to students and scholars of African politics conflict resolution international relations and global governance Innovation in Energy Law and Technology Donald Zillman, Lee Godden, LeRoy Paddock, Martha Roggenkamp, 2018-03-09 There are few existential challenges more serious in the twenty first century than energy transition As current trends in energy production prove unsustainable for the environment energy security and economic development innovation becomes imperative Yet with technological challenges come legal challenges Zillman Godden Paddock and Roggenkamp assemble a team of experts in their field to debate how the law may have to adapt to changes in the area What regulatory approach should be used How do we deal with longer term investment horizons and so called stranded assets such as coal fired power stations And can a form of energy justice be achieved which encompasses human rights sustainable development goals and the eradication of energy poverty With a concept as unwieldy as energy innovation it is high time for a text tackling changes which are dynamic and diverse across different communities and which provides a thorough examination of the legal ramifications of the most recent technological changes This book which be of vital importance to lawyers policy makers economists and the general reader
