Today, the American community that I am working on has become a self-organizing group, created from the grassroots. It was established as a local body in 1988, a year or two after the first of what are becoming a series of other such groups in other parts of the country. I believe that the self-organizing process has played a role in the success of the community, with a high commitment to self-education and mutual learning. Indeed, the group's success may provide an interesting pattern to what other individuals and other organizations that are self-organizing. One of the programs that I have developed since then has been the "Language of the Body" workshop, which teaches a language of the body that is a mixture of conventional psychology with a combination of the new concepts.

I believe that the E Symposium on Industrial and Systems Engineering should promote an integrated learning environment that are academically rigorous through its academic advisory programs that provide mathematics, sciences, and computer science as additional rather than engineering subjects. Mathematical concepts have had impact in production control, product structure, system control, system design, and engineering and technological design in business. I believe that it would increase opportunity to expand on the knowledge I was introduced to as "Math World". I will continue to provide guidance to that learning system as the E Symposium on Industrial and Systems Engineering through the integration of the academic knowledge and my personal/industry experience as shown in all interconnected activities.
