Reproductive Biotechnology in Finfish Aquaculture C.-S. Lee, E.M. Donaldson, 2012-12-02 The successful reproduction of cultured brood stock is essential to the sustainable aquaculture of aquatic organisms This book describes recent advances in the field of finfish reproductive biotechnology The chapters in this volume are written by eminent scientists who review the progress and assess the status of biotechnology research that is applicable to the reproduction of finfish species for aquaculture A wide range of topics is included starting with broodstock technologies such as broodstock genetics broodstock nutrition environmental control of maturation and impacts of stress on broodstock gametes and progeny The volume includes technologies for induction of ovulation and spermiation using synthetic hypothalamic peptides Gamete

technologies which are described include cryopreservation chromosome set manipulation disease prevention and control for gametes and embryos and the development of transgenic fish with enhanced production characteristics Genetic and endocrine technologies for the production of monosex male and female fish stocks are also described The closing chapter summarizes the discussion of each topic at the workshop provides recommendations to industry and describes priorities of research and development Researchers as well as teaching faculty in the aquaculture field will find this volume of great value

The Senses of Fish Gerhard von der Emde, Joachim Mogdans, B.G. Kapoor, 2012-12-06 Fish comprise more than 50% of all living vertebrates and are found in a wide range of highly diverse habitats like the deep sea the shoreline tide pools tropical streams and sweetwater ponds During evolution the senses of fish have adapted to the physical conditions of the environment in which different species live As a result the senses of fish exhibit a remarkable diversity that allows different species to deal with the physical constraints imposed by their habitat In addition fish have evolved several new sensory systems that are unique to the aquatic environment In this book examples of adaptation and refinement are given for six sensory systems The visual system The auditory system The olfactory system The mechanosensory lateral line system The taste system The electrosensory system In each case the environmental conditions under which a particular group of fish lives are analyzed This is followed by a description of morphology and physiology of the sensory system and by an evaluation of its perceptual capabilities Finally the sensory adaptations to the particular conditions that prevail in the habitat of a species are highlighted The various examples from different groups of fish presented in this book demonstrate the impressive capability of fish sensory systems to effectively overcome physical problems imposed by the environment Paddlefish Aquaculture Steven D. Mims, William L. Shelton, 2015-06-29 Paddlefish have become of increasing interest to the aquaculture community in recent years particularly as a potential new source of seafood and caviar Native to North America paddlefish show great promise both domestically and internationally as a commercially viable farmed species Paddlefish Aquaculture examines all aspects of the biology and culture of these fish exploring their physiology production end products and the economics underlying a successful paddlefish operation Chapters specifically cover paddlefish biology propagation and early culture techniques production for meat and caviar international culture and history paddlefish food products bioaccumulants of contaminants in paddlefish parasites and diseases and the economics of paddlefish aquaculture Paddlefish Aquaculture is a timely practical reference for researchers and producers interested in paddlefish Sturgeon biodiversity and conservation Vadim J. Aquaculture Sourcebook Edwin S. Iversen,K.K. Hale,2012-12-06 As traditional commercial fishing becomes increasingly expensive and restrictive aquacultural fish production emerges as a practical viable alternative The Aquaculture Sourcebook is an introductory text and ready reference for information on the fresh brackish and salt water farming of both fish and shellfish as well as of several important algae Until now such material has been available only in scattered publications but the Aquaculture Sourcebook incorporates all the feasibility data pertinent to farming aquacultural species in North America into one easy to use text It will be welcomed not only by current and future aquaculturists but also by fisheries seafood company managers biologists teachers and students The Aquaculture Sourcebook has been designed to satisfy the needs of fisheries scientists and commercial aquaculturists by providing in a handy and well organized format information vital for successful North American aquacultural ventures Concise details are given for over a hundred individual speices including not only those raised for human consumption but also organisms reared for feed bait or other purposes Each entry in this valuable volume covers such relevant material as the scientific and common names of the organism its visual appearance and distinctive characteristics habitat range specifications species reproduction and development age and growth related factors specific parasites an diseases potential predators and or competitive species its prospects for future aquacultural success Key groups of closely related species are discussed in a geographical context highlighting areas which each will find the habitat best for its survival Great care has been taken to specify ranges of tolerable salinity and optimum temperature for candidate species and emphasis has been placed on creating aquacultural environments that replicate those normally habitated in nature Comprehensive informative and accessible to layperson and scientist alike the Aqualculture Sourcebook is both the perfect desktop reference for anyone establishing an aquacultural facility and a ready reference to help maintain one Living Resources of the Delaware Estuary ,1995 Marine Ranching Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations,2004-01-01 With coastal fisheries in decline around the world there is growing concern about how long current sources of seafood can supply world needs There is an increasing emphasis on restocking and aquaculture based stock enhancement as a way to rapidly replenish depleted fish stocks and increase fishery landings This publication contains case studies on the use of sea ranching and marine hatchery enhancement to generate income re establish fisheries and conserve aquatic biodiversity including studies from Norway Australia the Pacific Islands the Caspian Sea with an emphasis on Iran and Japan The Siberian Sturgeon (Acipenser baerii, Brandt, 1869) Volume 2 - Farming Patrick Williot,Guy Nonnotte,Mikhail Chebanov,2018-04-09 The Siberian sturgeon Acipenser baerii Brandt 1869 is the most widely farmed sturgeon species Continuing from Volume 1 which focuses on the biology of the species the present Volume 2 in turn examines farming aspects It is divided into six parts the first of which deals with reproduction and early ontogenesis i e reproductive cycles controlled reproduction sperm cryoconservation and weaning of larvae The second covers the growing phase with a focus on food and feeding management fish meal replacement potential endocrine disruptions usefulness of prebiotics and immunostimulants and nitrogen excretion Production related data are the focus of the third part and include characteristics countries structures of production evolution in production economic features of the gross production of the species meat and caviar worldwide a method for assessing the quality of caviars off flavors management and an example of production of fingerlings for restocking Part four addresses selected long term management issues genetic variability of brood stocks genome manipulation and sex control and the advantages of hybrids The next three chapters constitute the fifth part which is devoted to health status immunology and welfare In closing the absence of ecological risks of introducing the species in non native waters is shown using two long term documented examples Russia and France Three methodological chapters round out the volume covering in vitro incubation of ovarian follicles a richly illustrated library of echographies and photos and a detailed presentation of oxygen demand studies

Finfish Aquaculture Diversification M. Jobling, C.

Carter, 2010 There is considerable global interest in the culture of finfish species both for cold and warm water aquaculture development and growth Essential information on the biology domestication and aquacultural characteristics of a wide selection of novel and established species is provided in the form of technical sheets species descriptions and information on current rearing practices making this a must have reference in the field of aquacultural science The book also offers a basic framework in order to support investment strategies for research and development efforts aimed at the emergence of a profitable finfish aquaculture industry and presents a rationale for species diversification different approaches to species selection and basic economical and market considerations governing the launch of strategic development and commercialization efforts
