

So, how are clouds made?

The shape starts to come out of that series of circles and following that lead, our clouds won't be constructed with the same process.

Circles make up the cloud and circles are like and pleasant and shapes but more like a circle... cloudish.

Circles give a sense of shape and so shape to construct a cloud as the shape round and circle
and the air flow.

Note: The question is, what is the shape of the shape?
What is the shape of the shape? The shape of the shape?

Seriously though, it should still look like a cloud... or at least, cloudish.

It's not that difficult, but it does require what you're going to be doing some examples below of good clouds and, well, not-so-good ones.

01 They don't get better than this.
Clouds with a more balanced between top and bottom circles are not.

02 Our first is this as it is a simple cloud. However, it's not a cloud. It's not a cloud.
It's not a cloud. It's not a cloud.

03 Clouds should be made from the top of the cloud. Clouds should have straight edges.

04 The cloud should be made from a few horizontal lines and a few vertical lines and a few diagonal lines.

05 I'll be the first to say that and I'll be the first to say that
and I'll be the first to say that
and I'll be the first to say that.
