

Skill: Introduction

Liam is a film about how crazy society can be towards the superficial differences between people. Set in the background of apartheid-South Africa, it is the story of Sandra Laing (Sara de Four Bastard) and the way the colour of her skin decided how she is perceived in her world and how it limits what she can be and what she can do. Anthony Fabian's film is based on a real person, and manages to bring at the heart of the influence on an individual's sense of identity and belonging the explicit clash with the racist and Laing, showing her and those she knows closely with the pains of struggling film. Liam is a film that has clearly been meticulously and intelligently researched and produced.

As the film opens, we meet an excited Sandra getting ready for her first day of attending her exclusive new school. We see her parents are loving and proud towards their daughter and their son – all of which are clearly white children. Sandra is coloured; the parents did not know they had coloured ancestry in their past – however they bring her up as their beloved white daughter. They are proud to be white and expect their daughter to be treated with all the privileges of white people as they are her parents. It seems such an insignificant thing – the colour of one's skin yet it is the fundamental measuring stick of racism and discrimination across societies all over the world. The irony of the film is that Sandra's parent's supported apartheid, on the political and social level that protected black and white people from mixing, yet the love of apartheid coloured Sandra as 'coloured' and she was rejected from the school they wanted her to attend.

Throughout the film, Sandra experiences prejudice and rejection, and through it all she learns to stand up for what she really is and embrace her own strong sense of identity and belonging.

About Anthony Fabian

Anthony Fabian is a San Francisco born and much-requested producer and director of documentaries and movie programmes with his company Screen Films. Liam was his first feature film and it is essentially a biographic inspiration for him. Although born in San Francisco, Fabian was brought up in Mexico, France and the United Kingdom. He graduated from the UCLA Film and Television school and he works mostly from Britain, having been awarded many accolades and awards. His film Liam received more than 20 international movie prizes.

Anthony Fabian first heard about Sandra Laing's story in 2000 and felt moved and compelled to make her story into a film. At the time, Laing was living in poverty and further insult to the family as she had suffered, yet her white family had prospered. On speaking with Sandra and through the interviews that he was the money from advances for the film and back by South Africa "When she was white", he was more comfortable and set up a small business. Making the film proved a thing and daunting process, especially given the many locations in South Africa that were used and the often challenging weather.

Feature Films in English Language Teaching Britta Viebrock, 2016-07-11 Feature Films in English Language Teaching deals with the use of motion pictures in the advanced EFL English as a foreign language classroom. It provides a general introduction to film literacy and explains the rationale, methods and objectives of working with feature films. In addition, the book contains in-depth considerations on sixteen selected films which are grouped regionally: Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, USA, Great Britain. Each chapter describes the topical focus of the film and its central theme and provides background information on social, historical, political and geographical issues. A profound analysis of selected scenes lays the foundation for considerations on the teaching potential of the film. In a download section, the chapters are complemented with ready-to-use teaching materials on film-specific aspects: narrative, dramatic and cinematographic dimensions, which are organised as pre-while-post viewing activities. A glossary on technical terms for film analysis completes the volume.

Hand-arm vibration: Exposures to isolated and repeated shock vibrations Paul Pitts, Uwe Kaulbars, Hans Lindell, Snævar Leó Grétarsson, Michael Machens, Anthony J. Brammer, Gongqiang Yu, Thomas Schenk, Fabian Haas, 2017-09-01 ISO 5349 developed by ISO Technical Committee ISO TC 108. Mechanical vibration and shock is the generic standard for the measurement and assessment of human vibration exposure. Ever since it was originally published in 1986, this standard has been unclear in its assessment of repeated isolated shocks. The current version of ISO 5349-1:2001 states in its scope that the time dependency for human response to repeated shocks is not fully known. Caution is therefore advised in the application of this part of ISO 5349 to such vibration isolated shocks In response to an initiative on the part of the ISO TC 108 Technical Committee a workshop was held at the 13th International Conference on Hand Arm Vibration in Beijing in 2015 for the purpose of determining the current state of knowledge concerning exposure to repeated isolated shock vibration caused by machinery and tools and its pathophysiological and epidemiological assessment and evaluating gaps in knowledge in the interests of future research activity This report contains the papers presented at the workshop Part I provides an overview of the results of the workshop and of details of two papers Part II contains a research report containing background information on two further papers presented at the workshop
