Pigmentocracies Edward Telles,2014-10-22 Pigmentocracies the fruit of the multiyear Project on Ethnicity and Race in Latin America PERLA is a richly revealing analysis of contemporary attitudes toward ethnicity and race in Brazil Colombia Mexico and Peru four of Latin America s most populous nations Based on extensive original sociological and anthropological data generated by PERLA this landmark study analyzes ethnoracial classification inequality and discrimination as well as public opinion about Afro descended and indigenous social movements and policies that foster greater social inclusiveness all set within an ethnoracial history of each country A once in a generation examination of contemporary ethnicity this book promises to contribute in significant ways to policymaking and public opinion in Latin America Edward Telles PERLA s principal investigator explains that profound historical and political forces including multiculturalism have helped to shape the formation of ethnic identities and the nature of social relations within and across nations One of Pigmentocracies s many important conclusions is that unequal social and economic status is at least as much a function of skin color as of ethnoracial identification Investigators also found high rates of discrimination by color and ethnicity widely reported by both targets and witnesses Still substantial support across countries was found for multicultural affirmative policies a notable result given that in much of modern Latin America race and ethnicity have been downplayed or ignored as key factors despite their importance for earlier nation building Manual of Simulation in Healthcare Richard H. Riley,2008 Medical simulation is a relatively new science that is achieving respectability among healthcare educators worldwide Simulation and skills centres have become established to integrate simulation into mainstream education in all medical nursing and paramedical fields Borrowing from the experience and methodologies of industries that are using simulation medical educators are grappling with the problem of rapidly acquiring the skills and techniques required to implement simulation programmes into established curricula This book assists both novice and experienced workers in the field to learn from established practitioners in medical simulation Simulation has been used to enhance the educational experience in a diverse range of fields therefore a wide variety of disciplines are represented The book begins with a section on the logistics of establishing a simulation and skills centre and the inherent problems with funding equipment staffing and course development and promotion Section two deals with simulators and related training devices that are required to equip a stand alone or institution based centre The features strengths and weaknesses of training devices are presented to help the reader find the appropriate simulator to fulfil their training requirements There is a guide to producing scenarios and medical props that can enhance the training experience The third section covers adult education and it reviews the steps required to develop courses that comply with best practice in medical education Teaching skills facilitating problem based learning groups and debriefing techniques are especially important to multidisciplinary skills centres that find themselves becoming a centre for medical education The manual concludes with guides for the major specialties that use simulation including military paediatrics CPR and medical response teams obstetrics and anaesthesia
