The Pauline Conversion:

Archetypes of Conversion Anne Hunsaker Hawkins, 2014-03-07 This sensitive and imaginative study explores the phenomenon of conversion in three major religious autobiographies the Confessions of Saint Augustine Grace Abounding by John Bunyan and Thomas Merton's The Seven Storey Mountain These three religious figures could hardly be more different and yet as Hawkins shows their conversion narratives are remarkably similar in patterns of theme figure and action This archetypal approach is particularly appropriate to spiritual autobiography which is less concerned with self than with soul and which seeks to relate the individual to a divine reality that is universal and timeless Hawkins approach to these texts is sophisticated yet free of jargon and doctrinaire psychologizing Here archetypal analysis becomes not an end in itself but also a means to investigate the complexity of the individual text Hawkins archetypal analysis serves not only to discern continuities but also to explore cultural ideological and psychological variations Adapting William James's distinction between crisis and lysis conversion Hawkins shows that the conversion paradigm central to each autobiography determines its religious meaning its formal structure and its archetypal emphases The author approaches the phenomena of conversion with a blend of critical detachment and imaginative sympathy She is always careful to honor the authenticity of religious experience and for this reason her commentary succeeds in illuminating it The result is an interdisciplinary study that will appeal to the psychologist and literary critic as well as the student of religion But these narratives of conversion offer paradigms that apply to any deeply significant change for they are of interest and concern to all readers seeking to find meaning in their lives Hawkins makes us feel both the immediacy and the permanence of these texts for What is human in them speaks to what is human in us

Political Conversion Don Waisanen, 2018-04-20 Stories of religious conversion have been told for millennia Yet many prominent figures such as Ronald Reagan Hillary Clinton and Rick Perry have also used stories of their change from one political worldview to another as a communication strategy aimed at winning the hearts and minds of the public This book is about political conversion stories in public discourse in their evolution from and interactions with religion From a historical perspective it charts the development of conversion narratives from religious contexts to their contemporary applications as specifically political messages Since these narratives continue to be used in the culture wars this book examines several related autobiographies that contributed to the use of this strategy in contemporary U S politics Each case shows how shifts during the postwar period called for conversion texts under varying guises and illustrates how and why the majority of these stories have been of conversions from the ideological left to the right Examining political conversion as a form of public persuasion Political Conversion ultimately provides insight into what these types of civic religious stories mean for democratic communication and communities
